DERA SACHA SAUDA CHIEF GETS 20-DAY PAROLE

The Haryana government has granted a 20-day parole to Dera Sacha Sauda chief Gurmeet Ram Rahim Singh, while barring him from taking part in election activities, making speeches and staying in the state. Singh, who is lodged in Rohtak's Sunaria jail, is serving a 20-year sentence given in 2017 for raping two disciples. He had sought parole ahead of the October 5 Haryana Assembly polls. Singh had cited the death anniversary of his father as a reason for seeking relief.

INDIA TEAR UP SCRIPT, WIN TEST & SERIES AGAINST BANGLADESH

After losing two days to rain and a dodgy outfield, hosts go on supercharged mode with both bat and ball to emerge victors in Kanpur

SOLID ALL-ROUND PERFORMANCE

With the added context of World Test Championship (WTC) points, the hosts knew they had to chase the win to get points, even if there were only 35 overs bowled across the first three days. After making light work of Bangladesh on the fourth morning, the batters broke several records before the bowlers turned up and did their thing again. They were also aided by some really good close-in catching

A MATCH OVER IN SEVEN SESSIONS

- Ravindra Jadeja, Jasprit Bumrah and R Ashwin, three of India's biggest bowling match-winners, turned up on the morning of Day 5 to dent the visitors' efforts.
- Once they were bowled out in the first session, a target of 95 was never going to trouble the Indians. India need to win three of their remaining eight matches in the current cycle to seal a place in next year's final at Lord's | P19

Iran fires 180 ballistic missiles on Israel

Most shot down, few hit central, southern parts

AGENCIES

IRAN on Tuesday fired dozens of ballistic missiles against Israel, days after the latter eliminated Tehran-backed Hezbollah militia's chief Hassan Nasrallah. A series of window-shaking explosions were heard in Tel Aviv and near Jerusalem, though it was not immediately clear whether the sounds were from missile landings or interception, or both.

However, the Israeli Defense Forces (IDF) said there were isolated impacts of the missiles in central Israel and several more in the country's south.

Israeli army spokesman Rear Admiral Daniel Hagari said the country's air defence system was fully operational, detecting and intercepting threats. "However, the defence is not hermetic," he said.

The IDF said they intercepted a large number of the 180 missiles launched by Iran. The US participated in the air defence, both by detecting the threat from Iran and intercepting some of the missiles, The Times of Israel quoted the military as saying.

US President Joe Biden and Vice President Kamala Harris monitored the attack from the White House Situation Room.

Democratic Congressman Jared Moskowitz tweeted, "Iran has made a mistake, it has put its nuclear facilities on the board as fair game." However, Iran's Revolutionary Guards threatened to carry out crushing attacks against Israel if it retaliates. "If the Zionist regime reacts to Iranian operations, it will face crushing attacks," it said in a statement. It added that it targeted three military bases near Tel Aviv.

As soon as the air raids began, Israel issued orders to its nationals on their mobile phones and on national television to quickly take shelter.

Iran's missile attacks came a day after Israel revealed it had begun limited ground operations against Hezbollah in southern Lebanon.

Hours before the attack, the US issued an alert saying it was imminent. But Iran's mission in the UN claimed it did not give the US prior notice of the attack. "No notice was given to the US prior to our response; however, a serious warning was issued afterwards," the Iranian mission said.

As for Iran's Supreme Leader Ali Khamenei, he remained in a secure location. P14

Sibal advised Siddu's wife to surrender MUDA sites?

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Siddaramaiah's wife Parvathi decided to surrender the 14 sites allotted to her by the Mysuru Urban Development Authority (MUDA) after senior counsel and former Union minister Kapil Sibal's advice, according to sources.

Sibal's advice came after another senior counsel and RS member Abhishek Manu Singhvi challenged Governor Thaawarchand Gehlot's sanction to prosecute Siddaramaiah in MUDA case before the Karnataka High Court, but failed to get it quashed. Sibal suggested to do so in the wake of the Enforcement Directorate registering an ECIR against Siddaramaiah.

Sibal is likely to take up the case in the Supreme Court, the sources said. The CM's wife is also planning to get the gift deed, through which she got 3.16 acres of land from her brother Mallikarjuna Swamy in 2010, revoked. As soon as Siddaramaiah got a clue that the ED will register the ECIR, he consulted his legal advisers, including Sibal, the sources said.

Although it is late, the move is likely to help Siddaramaiah to an extent in the ED probe under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA). On July 4, Siddaramaiah responded to the issue for the first time in a press conference held along with Urban Development Minister Byrati Suresh. P6

Siddu questions money laundering case

Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, who is in the eye of a raging political storm, has claimed that the allotment of 14 alternative sites by the MUDA does not attract the provisions of the PMLA. Questioning the ED for slapping the PMLA case against him, Siddaramaiah reiterated that he will not step down as the state's chief minister. P6

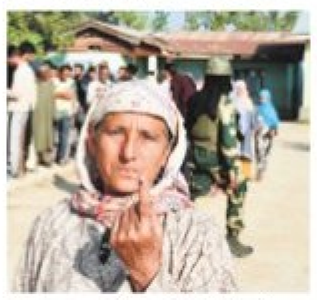
MUDA cancels 14 sites allotted to CM's wife

In a swift move, the MUDA on Tuesday evening cancelled the sale deeds of 14 sites that were returned by Chief Minister Siddaramaiah's wife Parvathy BM, just 24 hours after her request was made public. Sources close to MUDA revealed that the Urban Development Department was consulted before initiating the action to cancel the sale deeds. P6

63.5% overall, turnout betters LS polls in J&K

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

THE third and final phase of assembly polls in 40 seats in J&K on Tuesday witnessed 68.72% voter turnout, two percentage points more than the recent Lok Sabha elections. With the first and the second phases recording 61.38% and 57.31% polling respectively, the overall percentage was 63.45%, up from 59.65% in the Lok Sabha polls.



A woman shows her inked finger in Shadipora in Sumbal area of Bandipora district on Tuesday | ZAHOOR PUNJABI

Brisk polling was reported in all separatist bastions in north Kashmir while there was greater enthusiasm in the Jammu region, where the West Pakistan Refugees, Valmikis and Gorkhas got to exercise their franchise for the first time in the assembly polls.

While counting of votes is on October 8, exit poll outcome would be known by October 5 (Saturday) evening, after elections conclude in Haryana.

In all separatist bastions, including Palhalan, Pattan, Baramulla, Rafiabad and Sopore, voters made a beeline at polling stations.

In Sopore, the polling was moderate at 41.44%. But it was for the first time that people in Sopore openly came out to vote. "Earlier, there was hesitation and our family members used to prevent us from casting votes," said retired teacher Abdul Aziz.

Chandrayaan-3 lander landed on one of oldest craters, reveals study

This buried crater is one of the oldest craters on the Moon

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

A study by scientists from the Physical Research Laboratory (PRL) and ISRO says that Chandrayaan-3, the Indian Lunar Mission, landed within a buried impact crater that is around 160km in size and 4.4km deep.

This is said to be older than the South Pole Atkin basin. A press release issued by ISRO on Tuesday said, "This buried crater is one of the oldest crater on the Moon and the Chandrayaan-3 Vikram lander and Pragyan rover landed and roved within this buried crater, which is hosting the SPA basin ejecta material and some of the most deeply excavated material on the Moon."

According to the study titled, 'Chandrayaan-3 landing site evolution by South Pole-Aitken basin and other impact craters' published in the peer-reviewed journal, Icarus, said this information was revealed based on an analysis of images obtained by Navigation Cameras on Chandrayaan-3 Pragyan rover and Chandrayaan-2 Orbiter's Optical High Resolution Camera. P11

1st hydrogen train to start trial run in Dec

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR
@ New Delhi

INDIA will soon become the fifth country to run hydrogen-fuelled trains, after Germany, France, Sweden, and China. Indian Railways has awarded a pilot project for retro-fitment of hydrogen fuel cell in existing DEMU (diesel electric multiple unit) trains, along with the necessary ground infrastructure.

The first prototype is set to run on the Jind-Sonipat section in Haryana under the Northern Railway zone by December 2024. A Railways official said the integration of the prototype train is on at the Integral Coach Factory, Chennai. Railway Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw is overseeing this project, sources said.

The Railways will introduce 35 hydrogen trains under Hydrogen for Heritage initiative, investing over ₹80 crore for each train and ₹70 crore for infrastructure development across various heritage and hill routes.

The Railways has received approval for a hydrogen plant from the Petroleum & Explosives Safety Organization, and on-board hydrogen safety assessments are being conducted by leading agencies, including TUV-SUD Germany, officials said.

Among the heritage routes targeted are the Matheran Hill Railway, Darjeeling Himalayan Railway, Kalka-Shimla Railway, Kangra Valley, and Nilgiri Mountain Railways. It will run three years after trials.

The highest temperature recorded on Tuesday was in Davanagere at 34.6 degrees Celsius, followed by Chamarajanagar at 34.5 degrees Celsius and Raichur at 34.4 degrees Celsius. Both Bagalkot and Raichur recorded 34.1 degrees Celsius. In Chitradurga, it was 33 degrees Celsius.

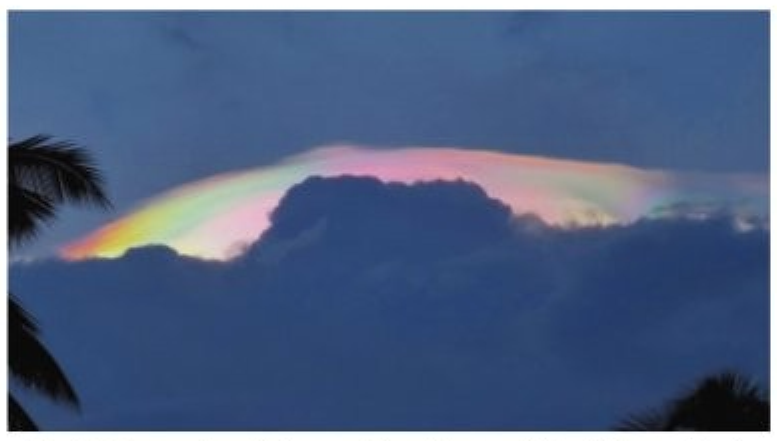
IMD officials said the maximum temperature is similar to what is experienced during the onset of summer. The temperature has been rising gradually over the last few days, they pointed out.

"The temperature is rising because of poor rainfall, prolonged dry spell and clear skies. This is neither an unusual, nor a rare phenomenon. It happened last year too," said IMD Director and senior scientist CS Patil.

He said last year, the state experienced drought, because of which the temperature went up. This year, however, the state as a whole received 11% excess rainfall. Against the normal of 831.8 mm, the actual rainfall was 926.8 mm.

The officials noted that there has also been a 1.8 degrees Celsius rise in the minimum temperature. On Tuesday, Bengaluru recorded it at 22 degrees Celsius, against the normal of 20.2 degrees Celsius.

IMD data shows that earlier too, September and October have experienced maximum temperatures above 30 degrees Celsius.



The 'mini Aurora Borealis' occurred due to ice crystals in iridescent cloud, scattering light, creating a rainbow-like effect, say scientists

City sky glows with Northern Lights-like cloud phenomenon

RISHITA KHANNA @Bengaluru

BENGALURU residents were treated to a colourful sky at dusk on Monday and pre-dawn on Tuesday with shades of pink, green and yellow lighting up the horizon. While some thought it was the rare sight of Comet C/2023 A3 passing by the city, others compared it to a mini Aurora Borealis, or Northern Lights. But scientists dismissed these.

Dr Anand, Senior Scientific Officer at Jawaharlal Nehru Planetarium (JNP), told TNIE that the colours were caused by an environmental phenomenon, specifically a "local cloud phenomenon" called iridescent cloud. This happens when ice crystals in the cloud scatter light, creating a rainbow-like effect, similar to how light splits into colours when it passes through a prism.

Iridescent clouds happen when the sun is behind or close to thin clouds that have tiny water droplets or ice crystals in them. These clouds bend the sunlight, causing colourful patterns, like a rainbow, Dr Anand explained, adding that one usually sees this around sunrise or sunset when the sun is lower in the sky because the light passes through the clouds at just the precise angle.

Many people took to social media mentioning that Hyderabad might witness the same phenomenon after Bengaluru on October 2. However, Dr Anand clarified that this cannot be predicted as the iridescent cloud phenomenon is local and depends on specific atmospheric conditions like temperature and pressure. He explained that it varies depending on these factors, and even within Bengaluru, people across the city may not have witnessed this.

Although sometimes mistaken for a mini Aurora Borealis (or the Northern Lights), iridescent clouds tend to appear 'more vibrant,' especially around sunrise or sunset. In contrast, a mini Aurora Borealis, which occurs due to particles from the sun interacting with the Earth's atmosphere, is generally 'dimmer' and often seen in darker skies, he said.

Iridescent clouds usually form in thin, high-altitude clouds like cirrus or altocumulus, which are found at altitudes between 3,000 to 7,500 metres (10,000 to 25,000 feet) above the ground. Cirrus clouds, in particular, are thin and wispy, appearing like delicate strands across the sky. These clouds can cover a small patch of the sky, often surrounding the sun or the moon, and their colourful effect is limited to the specific area where sunlight or moonlight scatters through the ice crystals or water droplets at the right angle. While cirrus clouds generally occupy only a small portion of the sky, their brightness and vibrant colours can create appealing visual displays.

Moreover, iridescent clouds may not be visible across the entire city as they require thin, high-altitude clouds with ice crystals, which may only be present in certain parts of the sky at a given time.

Students hold massive stir over lack of govt lecturers

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

HUNDREDS of students from various government colleges staged a protest by raising slogans and displaying placards against the government at Freedom Park on Tuesday, demanding recruitment of guest lecturers.

Speaking to TNIE, Sachin R, a second-year student of Peenya Government College, said classes started two months ago, but due to shortage of lecturers, the syllabus has not yet been covered. Final-year students are currently teaching second-year students, and second-year students are taking classes for first-year students, he alleged.

Anu, a first-year student of the same college, said due to the new syllabus as per the National Education Policy (NEP), it is difficult to study due to the lack of guest lecturers, especially with more practical subjects.

Pointing out that the government decided to conduct the semester exams for graduation students in the next two months, another student said the situation for them is dire.

Speaking at the protest, All India Democratic Student's Organisation (AIDSO) Bengaluru President Apoorva said there are thousands of students in government degree colleges across the state, but only five to eight permanent faculty members are appointed.

"According to the calendar of events, the odd semester examinations are scheduled to start on December 9. The counselling for guest lecturers will be held in October, and recruitment is likely to finish in November. In this case, students will have to write exams with only a month of teaching. It's high time the government wakes up, listens to the students, and immediately appoints lecturers," she said.

Microlights, gliders grounded as DGCA refuses flying nod without insurance

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

Microlight Aircraft

Powered Hang-glider

OWNERS of small aircraft in Bengaluru are reeling with their two-seater microlight aircraft or powered hang-gliders grounded this financial year as they have been denied airworthiness certification by the Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA). But while the aviation regulator has made it mandatory for the aircraft to be insured before handing over this certificate, most insurance companies refuse to insure them with just one willing to do it for Rs 20 lakh per annum.

The microlight or glider is priced between Rs 20 lakh and Rs 75 lakh. This single-engine aircraft, a two-seater, is flown mostly as a hobby by flying enthusiasts or deployed for training purposes.

Captain Arvind Sharma, the country's first micro-light licence-holder and founder of Jakkur-based Agni Aero Sports Adventure Academy Pvt Ltd, has filed a case in the High Court against the DGCA over the issue and the hearing is still on.

BG Kumar Swamy, owner of Bangalore Aviation and Sports Enterprises, told TNIE, "Bengaluru being the aviation hub of the country has 12 small aircraft, including micolights and gliders. I own both. A DGCA rule stating that insurance is required has existed for decades. But it is only this year that their officials are insisting that it must be produced for certification. I have tried multiple insurance firms over the last six months, but I've have drawn a blank."

Vinitha Mariappa, who owns a microlight, said, "I tried to get my DGCA certification in March. I could not find anyone to insure it and it is November now. These are serviceable, fit aircraft and not running the engines for six months will damage it. It is not safe to fly an aircraft which has been idle for so long. Students are waiting to learn on them, but we cannot operate them."

Vishal Shroff, a flying hobbyist, said, "My powered hang glider, which I purchased for Rs 40 lakh in 2021, is presently languishing at Jakkur. I am paying Rs 15,000 a month as parking fee. I have flown such gliders in Australia, New Zealand, Philippines, Thailand, Dubai, Canada and the US. Nowhere have I faced this issue."

Proprietor of Pune-based Max Link is unable to collect two of his brand new aircraft for the last two years from the Bengaluru-based Albatross Flying Systems despite all obtaining all certificates and making the payments. "I am unable to fly them from Bengaluru to Pune without an airworthiness certificate which requires an insurance policy. They are just sitting in the hangar of the firm for the last two years. Nowhere in the world does this happen."

Explaining that he paid Rs 52 lakh per piece, Sethi produced documents which revealed that The New India Assurance Company Limited had given him a premium quotation in May 2024 for Rs 20 lakh per aircraft per year. "This is just an indirect manner of saying they are not willing to go ahead with the insurance. Will anyone pay a premium that is nearly 40 per cent of the aircraft cost? If they charge me up to Rs one lakh annually per aircraft, I am ready to pay. We only pay Rs 60,000 as annual premium for a Mercedes car, which is much costlier."

Multiple calls to the airworthiness department of the DGCA in both Bengaluru and its headquarters in New Delhi went unanswered. A DGCA official told TNIE, "We do not want to comment on it as the matter is in court now."

WHY INSURANCE COMPANIES BACKING OFF?

A representative from an insurance brokerage firm told TNIE, "I have checked with the big four government concerns and many private insurance firms about it due to requests from aircraft owners. The main reason is they have made an assessment on claims made over the last ten years and found these small aircraft encounter more incidents compared to the bigger aircraft. There was one microlight incident too in July 2022 at Jakkur Flying Training School which went unreported until the DGCA got to know about it. (The New Indian Express exposed it). Moreover, the ongoing war between Russia and Ukraine as well as Israel and Palestine has made the situation very hot for the aviation industry. Insurance premiums have shot up enormously. Insurance is just given for some categories of aircraft."

02ND October : The current heavenly alignment represents the beginning of a new cycle and the build-up of a fresh wave of energy. However, tradition states that it's a fine time for a rest, and that we can all put off urgent tasks for another few days. Sit back and make plans for when the time comes!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
You're definitely on to a winner. The odds are stacked in your favour, so if you can possibly ease yourself into a strong position, please do. Domestic affairs seem to be dominant, and even at work you will need to feel part of one large, happy family.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
A financial loss or crisis should now be in the past and, while you may not have a chance to make up for it until next year, at least you'll be able to put yourself on a better footing by the end of the week. Your best move will be to line up some useful allies.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
You're probably now coming under the shadow of the next major lunar alignment, and day-to-day ups and downs will only make sense when you look back with hindsight. This is a moment for casual companionship rather than raw passion, so don't expect what's not on offer!

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Busy stars will certainly keep you on your toes, but a measure of uncer-tainty is clouding the issues. You may have to accept that one particular course of action is a dead end in the short run, but could have welcome spin-offs next year. But what these will be, nobody can say!

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
You're in charge. This means that not only could you be the cause of a minor dispute, but also that you have the means to restore peace. Overseas and long-distance contacts should be cultivated, partly because it's people from back-grounds very different from yours who offer the greatest interest and stimulation.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
You should continue to believe that you are in the right. Spending plans should proceed as normal, but if you can possibly veer towards the imaginative and romantic end of the spectrum, so much the better. It's just that a day-dream could open your eyes to practical solutions and a concrete advantage.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
All things must pass, as the song says. That's one of the laws of astrology. The final round in a long, drawn-out battle is on the way, but as we're talking in years rather than weeks, you must maintain your grasp on the future. Important discussions should soon be completed.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
You must now learn to be more discriminating in your choice of friends. At work, you may distinguish between people who are genuinely helpful and those who can put over a flashy presentation but totally lack the sort of meaning and substance which you bring.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
The fact is that you have the best ideas, and you are in control. You need not fear people who harbour angry resent-ments or have sharp tongues and bitter words. You can also avoid contributing to tense situations - and count to ten before delivering any more home truths.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
It's your right not to be tied down, but colleagues and close associates are tearing their hair out at the moment. In about four or five days, you'll be ready to explain yourself and offer a few answers. But by the time that partners have caught up with where you are now, you'll have moved on.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
You may finalise a number of social arrange-ments, or put a new friend-ship on firm ground, before the next phase in your personal affairs comme-nces. The answer to any difficulties with children or younger relations may lie in the past. It's all a matter of knowing where to draw the line.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
The past few weeks seem to have coincided with tense situations at work, but the origin of any strain probably lies deep within your private affairs. Decisive action may not be enough. Patience is essential, but then that has always been one of your major qualities.

MUDA acts swiftly, cancels 14 sites allotted to Siddu's wife

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Mysuru

IN a swift move, the Mysuru Urban Development Authority (MUDA) on Tuesday evening cancelled the sale deeds of 14 sites that were returned by Chief Minister Siddaramaiah's wife Parvathy, just 24 hours after her request was made public.

These sites, granted under the 50:50 compensation scheme for acquisition of 3.16 acres of land owned by Parvathi, snowballed into a major controversy and the Lokayukta filed an FIR against the CM and his kin, following an order by the special court.

Confirming the cancellation of sale deeds, MUDA Commissioner AN Raghunandan told TNIE, "Congress MLC Yathindra Siddaramaiah, on behalf of Parvathi, gave us a letter at 9.30 am on Tuesday. After consulting legal experts and following certain procedures and acts, we officially canceled the sale deeds. The local sub-registrar has been asked to cancel the sale deeds related to the 14 sites."

Stating that it was a first-of-its kind case in MUDA, he said, "Since certain procedures and acts allowed us to do so, we cancelled the sites allotted to Parvathy." Parvathy's letter to the MUDA commissioner went viral on social media after Siddaramaiah posted her intention to return the sites at the earliest.

The swift action of MUDA has come as a surprise to the people. Senior and retired MUDA officials noted that khatas (ownership documents) of the 14 sites were issued in Parvathi's name long ago. "We thought this would complicate the process. Despite this, MUDA cancelled the sale deeds and took back the sites," said a retired MUDA officer.

Sources close to MUDA revealed that the Urban Development Department was consulted before initiating the action to cancel the sale deeds.

This development seems to have brought some relief to Siddaramaiah and his camp.

On whether the Lokayukta, which is investigating the case, has sought any documents from MUDA, Raghunandan said, "The agency had written to us seeking our cooperation for its investigation. We will extend our cooperation."

Innocent, won't step down: Siddu

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Siddaramaiah, who is in the eye of a raging political storm, has claimed that the allotment of 14 alternative sites by the Mysuru Urban Development Authority (MUDA) does not attract the provisions of the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA).

Questioning the Directorate of Enforcement (ED) for slapping the PMLA case against him, Siddaramaiah reiterated that he will not step down as the state's chief minister. Speaking to the media at Ravindra Kalakshetra in Bengaluru, Siddaramaiah maintained that he was not aware of his wife Parvathy deciding to surrender the sites to MUDA. He said that she had not discussed the matter with him and took an independent decision of writing to MUDA.

On the ED having filed an Enforcement Case Information Report (ECIR) against him, the CM clarified that the Central agency is free to take all legal actions. "According to me, allotment of plots alternative to the land acquired is not money laundering. What is my role in this case? The Opposition parties are experts in telling lies. Will the resignation put an end to it all? They are seeking my resignation unnecessarily. When I have done no wrong, why should I resign? I will work conscientiously, and there is no need to resign," Siddaramaiah said.

On Monday, the ED registered an ECIR against Siddaramaiah and others over the alleged irregularities in allotment of 14 sites to the CM's wife, Parvathy, by MUDA.

"My wife's brother, Mallikarjuna Swamy, owned the land at Kesare. He gave 3 acres and 16 guntas to my wife as gift. MUDA encroached on it, created plots, and sold it. Alternative sites were requested for it, and the site was allotted in the Vijayanagar 3rd and 4th phase in Mysuru. My wife had not asked for the sites in Vijayanagar. Now, that is a big controversy," the CM elaborated.

Siddaramaiah said that his wife took the decision to surrender the sites, and she was hurt by the allegations made by the Opposition parties and his rivals damaging his image as part of their vendetta politics.

Surrendered sites only to escape from law: BJP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

A day after Chief Minister Siddaramaiah's wife surrendered 14 sites allotted to her by the Mysuru Urban Development Authority (MUDA), the Opposition BJP and JDS termed it an admission of guilt and demanded the CM's resignation.

"After the High Court and the Special Court verdict and the Enforcement Directorate case, the sites were surrendered to escape from the clutches of law," Karnataka BJP president BY Vijayendra told the media on Tuesday.

The sites were surrendered to gain political sympathy and to silence Siddaramaiah's detractors within the Congress, he said. "The CM is likely to resign any time," Vijayendra claimed.

The BJP leader said that by returning the sites, Siddaramaiah admitted that he had committed a mistake. The BJP leaders recalled Siddaramaiah's 2011 remarks that then CM BS Yediyurappa had admitted his mistake by surrendering sites allotted to his family members.

He said Siddaramaiah should apologise to the governor and resign. The BJP leader also urged Home Minister Dr G Parameshwara and state police chief to provide security to social activist Snehamayi Krishna, who filed a case against the CM.

Former Deputy CM and BJP MP Govind Karjol said the CM must resign to ensure a free and impartial probe.

SIDDARAMAIAH HITS BACK

Siddaramaiah hit back at the Opposition and rejected their demand for his resignation. "Hurt by the controversy, my wife decided to return the sites. How can it be an admission of guilt?" Siddaramaiah said.

The CM said he had no role in the entire case. "There is a difference between former Chief Minister B S Yeddyurappa's case and my case. I have no role in this MUDA case. But Yeddyurappa had denotified the land. But I have not denotified the land. I work conscientiously, there is no need to resign," he asserted.

U-turn Siddaramaiah: HDK

"They call my remarks hit-and-run statements, what do we call this (returning of sites)? Can we call him U-turn Siddaramaiah?" Union Minister HD Kumaraswamy said hitting out at the CM. The former CM asked if the police or the government leave a thief if he returned the stolen property. There are a series of offenses in the MUDA case, he said. Kumaraswamy alleged that apart from the MUDA sites, Siddaramaiah had also purchased a site in Mysuru that was denotified illegally and was later sold. A lower court had directed that a case should be registered against Siddaramaiah and officials, but they got relief from the High Court. The case is now in the Supreme Court, the former CM added.

'I'm confident doddamma, doddappa will come out clean'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Mysuru

Even as the Mysuru Urban Development Authority (MUDA) sites scam has hit headlines, Chief Minister Siddaramaiah's extended family members are upset and accuse a larger conspiracy by BJP and JDS to unseat Siddaramaiah.

Raghu, son of Siddaramaiah's brother Rame Gowda, on Tuesday said the decision of his aunt (Doddamma) Parvathi BM -- Siddaramaiah's wife, to return 14 sites to the Mysore Urban Development Authority was right. She wrote a letter to the MUDA commissioner on Monday, asking the Authority to take back the site even as the Directorate of Enforcement (ED), earlier in the day, registered an FIR against Siddaramaiah, her and others over in the MUDA site allotment issue.

The Lokayukta too has taken up the investigation into alleged irregularities in the allotment of sites in upmarket Vijayanagar area by MUDA to Parvathi, in lieu of her three acres and 16 guntas of land acquired by the Authority.

Raghu said Siddaramaiah has not entertained any family member on any request since he entered politics in 1983. "We have not gone asking for anything. If we had done that, we could have led a life of luxury. I did not have to buy a motorbike on loan," he added.

He said his aunt is upset over the developments in the MUDA issue and that was the reason she surrendered the sites. "She does not interfere in anything," he added.

'Plot hatched by a few upset with guarantees'

Raghu alleged that a few politicians who are upset with the implementation of the guarantee schemes for the poor have hatched a plot to corner Siddaramaiah.

Siddaramu, who is Chief Minister's cousin, said Siddramaiah has had a clean public life for the last four decades and someone hatched the plot to besmirch the CM's reputation. He said, "Pravathamma has not made any mistake, but they have projected her as a culprit and it has pained the family."

Recalling that the 14 sites were allotted when the BJP government was in power, he said family members spoke to Parvathi many times.

"We are confident that doddamma and doddappa will come out clean in the MUDA scam," he added.

Women in Siddaramana Hundi, from where Siddaramaiah hails, are also upset with the entire episode. The villagers recently visited the Male Mahadeshwara Hill temple and offered puja to ward off any evil aimed at Siddaramaiah.

State govt working hard to throw me in jail: HDK

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

UNION Minister for Steel HD Kumaraswamy on Tuesday claimed that the state government is yet again working to throw him behind bars. "They dream of imprisoning me at least for a day," he said.

The former chief minister, a political veteran, alleged that certain officials, led by an officer who he did not name, are working tirelessly to see him jailed.

Kumaraswamy continued to drop bombshells, saying, "I exposed his (the officer's) misdeeds to the media, and now he's out for revenge." But the question lingering among politically-bent minds is: What exactly is the case against Kumaraswamy?

The union minister finds himself in the crosshairs of a decade-old alleged scandal, standing accused in the Sri Sai Venkateshwara Minerals (SSVM) case, where criminal conspiracy and cheating allegations have been made. He is accused number two in the case, which has been filed over betraying public trust and government corruption. Kumaraswamy has taken bail, but if it is cancelled, the possibility of his arrest is real.

In relation to the case, the government has already sanctioned action against former officials K Jayachandra, who was an undersecretary in the Department of Commerce and Industries, and Javare Gowda, a former clerk in the Mines and Geology Department. But the sanction against Kumaraswamy is pending before the governor.

In this mining case, the Kumaraswamy's government was accused of bypassing the recommendations of the secretary of Commerce and Industries to lease 550 acres of land in Sandur taluk to SSVM. But the mining firm, which beat 29 other applicants for the land, turned out to be an unregistered entity.

It is also alleged that Jayachandra illegally inserted the name of the firm's proprietor Vinod Goel into an official letter. Jayanchandra's alleged accomplice and department clerk Javare Gowda processed it without verifying the original SSVM documents. Kumaraswamy is charged with criminal breach of trust, criminal conspiracy, and cheating in the case.

But Kumaraswamy isn't going down without a fight. On Tuesday, he defended his decision to secure bail, saying, "The law permits it. My lawyers advised me to take bail because these corrupt officials will do anything to bring me down."

He aimed his fire at the Special Investigation Team (SIT) probing the case. "I know what's been happening in the last three to four months. The SIT added the name of an unrelated person in the Rs 80 crore scandal to shift focus. They are manipulating facts," he alleged.

CM SIDDARAMAIAH claimed that MUDA had allotted 14 sites to his wife as it had encroached upon the land gifted to her by her elder brother and developed a residential layout there. He offered to surrender the sites if MUDA paid Rs 62 crore as compensation.

Meanwhile, former MUDA employee and RTI activist PS Nataraj lodged a complaint with the governor stating that MUDA had executed works worth Rs 387 crore in Varuna and Srirangapatna Assembly constituencies in violation of Sections 15 and 25 of the Karnataka Urban Development Authorities (KUDA) Act, 1987, allegedly on the oral instructions of the CM. The sources said Siddaramaiah held a meeting on Monday night with his legal adviser AS Ponnanna, former MP VS Ugrappa, Byrathi Suresh, a retired HC judge and an auditor at an undisclosed place. It is learnt that they discussed whether surrendering the sites will help CM counter the PMLA case and to what extent the move will help him in getting away from the Lokayukta probe by moving a division bench of the Karnataka High Court or the Supreme Court.

The sources said that Siddaramaiah's sympathisers had advised him to ask his wife to surrender her 14 sites and get himself detached from the case as soon as possible.

LOKAYUKTA COPS INSPECT LAND AT KESARE

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mysuru

With the Karnataka High Court directing the Lokayukta to complete the investigation into the Mysuru Urban Development Authority (MUDA) site allotment case within three months, the Lokayukta police conducted a mahazar (spot inspection) of the 3 acre 16 guntas of land acquired by the Authority in Survey No. 464 in Devanoor Layout, Kesare village. Activist Snehamayi Krishna, who is one of the complainants in the case, was also present.

The team, led by SP Udesh, sought certain clarifications from revenue officials.

The survey department and MUDA officials surveyed the land, and the Lokayuka police prepared a sketch, taking note of the survey numbers and owners of the neighbouring land.

The Lokayukta police had served a notice to Snehamayi Krishna on Monday asking him to appear before them along with documents in support of his claims.

Lokayukta police, activist Snehamayi Krishna and others inspect the land at Kesare, Mysuru, on Tuesday

In his complaint to the ED, Krishna had accused Siddaramaiah, along with others, hatching a criminal conspiracy, altering public documents, creating false records and using false and fabricated documents as genuine before the authorities concerned to grab MUDA land.

Krishna further charged that by offering to surrender the 14 sites to MUDA, Siddaramaiah and his wife have accepted their mistake. He said that they should have surrendered the sites as soon as the issue was raised. "But it is unfortunate that they disputed the charges and even did not listen to their wellwishers," he added.

Krishna said his agenda is not to get back just the 14 sites from the CM's wife but to ensure that MUDA takes back the sites from hundreds of persons who have obtained them illegally.

5-yr-old girl sees dad kill mom, sends him to jail for life

Daughter stays firm, says she was not tutored by her family to make the statement; Convict told court he had marital differences with his wife

YATHIRAJU @ Bengaluru

A five-year-old girl, a sole eyewitness to the brutal killing of her mother by her father, ensured that he was sentenced to life imprisonment by a city civil and sessions court.

The convicted, Raviraj Shetty, who is now 42 years old, was working as an import executive at a cargo company at Kempegowda International Airport (KIA). The minor daughter was studying LKG when the incident took place in 2016. Shetty killed his wife by stabbing her 22 times in front of the girl, who deposed boldly before the court, leading to Shetty's conviction. The order was passed by 45th Additional City Civil and Sessions Judge Mohammed Mohinuddin.

According to the prosecution, Shetty, who hailed from Moodubagge village in Kundapura taluk of Udupi district, married Supreetha in 2010. The family stayed near Halasuru. The couple used to quarrel regularly over minor issues. On September 14, 2016, when Shetty returned from work, his wife was putting their daughter to sleep. He asked Supreetha twice to serve him food and she replied that he has to wait. An angry Shetty then dragged his wife by her hair to the hall and slapped her. When she hit him back, he dragged her to the kitchen, took a knife and stabbed her 22 times on her back and neck. She collapsed on the floor and died in a pool of blood. The daughter was the sole eyewitness to the incident.

Soon after committing the murder, Shetty called his relatives and told them that Supreetha had ended her life by slitting her throat.

In July 2022, the daughter, who was 11 years old then, recorded her statement in the court. She identified her father, who was produced from the prison through the video conference, as the murderer. She told the court that she acted as if she was asleep out of fear and later narrated the entire incident to the police.

During the cross-examination by the defence counsel, the girl denied that she had been tutored by her family members to depose against her father and stuck to the statement she had made to the police.

Shetty told the police that he and Supreetha had compatibility issues and alleged that she was not taking care of him. He said she had assaulted him and he was waiting for an opportunity. Halasuru Police Inspector Subramanya filed the chargesheet along with the statement of the girl and scientific evidence.

HC directs Ola to pay ₹5L to victim of sexual harassment in cab

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court directed ANI Technologies (Ola) and its Internal Complaints Committee (ICC) to pay Rs 5 lakh compensation and Rs 50,000 towards litigation expenses to the petitioner, a victim of sexual harassment by a cab driver, for inaction on her complaint.

The court directed the additional commissioner for transport and secretary of the Karnataka State Transport Authority to pay Rs 1 lakh to the Karnataka State Legal Services Authority from their pocket for allowing Ola to run taxis without renewing licence, mandatory under the Aggregator Rules, 2016. The officials were also asked to proceed with the matter in response to the notice dated August 16, 2024, seeking explanation and complete the process within 90 days.

The court said it is inexplicable that Ola is operating its business without a valid licence and the Transport Authority's notice is nothing but an eyewash. It added, "The Transport Authority and the officers-in-charge are equally guilty of deliberate inaction and negligence in discharging their statutory obligations. The guilt of inaction equally lies at the threshold of the Authority and the officers, who are expected to discharge the obligations and the public trust reposed in them, requiring to be mulcted with costs".

Justice MGS Kamal passed the order while partly allowing the victim's petition against Ola and ICC for not taking action against the driver under provisions of the Sexual Harassment of Women at Work Place (Prevention, Prohibition and Redressal) Act, 2013, (PoSH Act), claiming that the company lacked jurisdiction.

After the victim boarded a cab on August 23, 2018, from her house in Yelahanka to her office in JP Nagar, the driver watched a porn video on his phone and intentionally held the phone in a manner to ensure that the video was visible to her and he also masturbated. The victim repeatedly requested the driver to stop the vehicle, but he did only near her office.

Two arrested for stealing 2-wheelers, selling them online

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

TWO vehicle-lifters, identified Shahabaz Khan and Om, who were stealing two-wheelers, have been arrested by the Parappana Agrahara police. After committing the thefts, the accused would post ads online to sell the stolen vehicles. They would change the registration numbers. If any person approached them, the accused used to sell the stolen two-wheelers for a cheaper price. The duo would tell the buyer to inform if anybody else needed bikes. If any potential customers sought a particular bike, unbeknownst to them, the accused would steal a bike of that model, and sell it. The police have recovered 13 two-wheelers worth Rs 12.5 lakh from the duo. The vehicles were being sold online, for Rs 15,000 to Rs 20,000.

Double sale of house by builder, FIR registered against Ozone Infra

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

CHARGING the Ozone Infra Developers Pvt Ltd of selling the same house in its residential project at Devanahalli to two different buyers, one of the duped buyers filed a case against the builder and five of its directors on September 28. The promoters have been booked for criminal breach of trust and cheating, based on the complaint by home-buyer Shashikanta Gupta.

The FIR has named 'Ozone Urban Infra Company' as the first accused, while Managing Director S Vasudevan is named as A2. Directors Sathyamurthy Sai, D Vamsi Sai, Seewosagar, and Rajeev Bhandri have also been named in the FIR.

Ozone Urbana Avenue has 1,800 houses and nearly 300 sites spread across 45 acres. It is located close to the Kempegowda International Airport. The Karnataka Real Estate Regulatory Authority (K-RERA) has refused to give an extension this year for the completion of the project.

Gupta had paid Rs 1.32 crore for a penthouse (S 1102) in 'Ozone Urbana Avenue' in 2017. The FIR states that the sale deed had been executed for it and a bank loan was taken by him to pay the builder the full amount. The house was to be handed over in 2022.

Advocate Reynold D'Souza, representing Gupta, told TNIE: "It was only recently that Gupta learnt to his shock that the house had been sold by the builder to another buyer three years ago (September 9, 2021). The new buyer too had taken a bank loan to buy the house. "

D'Souza added, "As on date, just 49 per cent of the project has been completed. Some blocks are nearly complete physically, but lack lifts, permanent water and electricity connection. Some 300-odd families reside there as of now, with temporary amenities provided by the builder."

The builder managed to get extension for the project from K-RERA in 2022 and 2023. "The home-buyers approached RERA this year and have requested it not to permit any more extensions. Home-buyers have also expressed an interest in taking over the incomplete project and complete it on their own. Due to this, K-RERA has denied the promoter any extension," the lawyer explained.

A home-buyer, requesting anonymity, said multiple orders issued by RERA in the past have been ignored by the promoter.

Despite multiple attempts, no one at Ozone Infra could be reached. One individual who responded to the calls asked the reporter to connect with the legal team, but did not share their contact details.

Woman, daughter held for killing neighbour

MYSURU: A fight between neighbours ended in the death of a 40-year-old man in Kollegal taluk in Chamarajanagar district on Tuesday. The police have arrested a woman and her daughter for alleged assault, which resulted in the death of their neighbour. The police said Mahadevaswamy, a resident of Mudigunda Layout in Kollegal town, died after being attacked by Chandramma (50) and daughter Preeti (27). The families of Chandramma and Mahadevaswamy used to fight over petty issues for the last two years. On Monday evening, an autorickshaw loaded with rice bags was going to Chandramma's house. But Mahadevaswamy's nephew Ramesh stopped the vehicle, claiming that the water pipeline which had been laid on the road would be damaged. Chandramma and Preeti came out of the house and picked up a fight with Ramesh. Mahadevaswamy joined the altercation. Enraged, Chandramma and Preeti hit Mahadevaswamy with bricks and stones on his head and chest, and he collapsed on the spot. ENS

3 held for looting valuables of ₹1.09 cr from jeweller's house

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

UPSET over being removed from his job, a 25-year-old man, along with three accomplices, stole valuables worth Rs 1.09 crore from his employer's house in Subramanyanagar. The police arrested the main accused, identified as Sanyasi Matha Nandeesh, while he was returning with his family after visiting Dharmasthala and Kukke Subramanya, where he had also tonsured his head.

Sanyasi's confession resulted in the arrest of two other accused, HM Nandeesh and CH Pratap Kumar, from a village in Ballari. The police are now on the lookout for the fourth accused. The valuables, including 1.8 kg of gold jewellery, diamond jewellery, eight wristwatches and cash, have been recovered intact. The accused had gained entry into the duplex house by cutting through window grills on the first floor.

The theft was reported at jeweller Bhaskar's house, located on 3rd Main of Maruthi Extension, on September 21, when he along with his family had gone to Mantralaya. Bhaskar owns a reputed jewellery shop in Subramanyanagar.

Sanyasi was earlier working at Bhaskar's house, but was sacked owing to inefficiency. This had angered him and he sought revenge. He had overheard a conversation the house maid had with a neighbour about Bhaskar and his family going on a pilgrimage.

Complainant knew accused

Accordingly, Sanyasi and his accomplices plotted the theft. After returning home the next day, Bhaskar found his valuables missing and filed a police complaint on September 23.

Since Sanyasi was known to the complainant, it became easy for the police to identify him. He was duly arrested and the loot was recovered from his house. Later, the police arrested Nandeesh and Kumar from Ballari, and recovered some cash from one of their houses. Further investigation is on.

K'TAKA MAY INCREASE PENSION AFTER REVIEW, SAYS SIDDU

Govt efforts focused on empowering, underprivileged: CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

APPROXIMATELY five million senior citizens currently receive a monthly pension in the state, and Chief Minister Siddaramaiah announced that the government will review and decide on increasing this amount. The CM made this announcement during the inauguration of the International Day of Older Persons program, on Tuesday.

To further enhance support services for senior citizens, Minister of Women and Child Development, and Disabled and Senior Citizens Empowerment, Laxmi Hebbalkar, during the event, announced a 50% increase in remuneration for the staff working at helpline centres dedicated to elderly care.

Siddaramaiah stressed that society should honour the social contributions made by seniors, stating that they should not just be respected, but also serve as inspirations for the youth. Drawing inspiration from national poet Kuvempu, the Chief Minister urged everyone to strive to become global citizens, asserting that the experiences of seniors serve as a guiding light in this endeavour.

Expressing concern over the increasing number of old age homes, the CM noted that even with a supportive home environment, more elderly individuals are opting for these facilities due to their children residing abroad. He remarked that this trend of admitting seniors to old age homes must be stopped, and further asserted that the government's efforts are focused on empowering the weak and underprivileged.

During the event, six individuals and one service organisation were honoured with state-level awards for their exceptional achievements in various fields. Additionally, CM Siddaramaiah distributed nutritional kits to 10 women.

Minister Laxmi Hebbalkar emphasised the government's dedication to providing quality healthcare for seniors, stating that necessary measures would be taken to implement a health insurance scheme specifically for the elderly.

Moreover, acknowledging the ongoing demand for increasing pensions for the elderly, she assured attendees that this issue would be brought to the Chief Minister's attention, affirming, "We will ensure that senior citizens receive the support they deserve."

With approximately 5.7 million senior citizens in the state, the government has allocated Rs 10.47 crore for the welfare of the elderly in the 2024-25 fiscal year, enabling various community-friendly programs, she said and also mentioned that 63 old age homes have been established statewide through self-help organizations to support weak and destitute elderly individuals. "Currently, 1,575 elderly individuals are residing in these facilities, and the process to open an additional 19 old age homes is underway," she added.

PSI exam will be held under camera surveillance

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

TO ensure integrity of the upcoming written exam for 402 Police Sub-Inspector (PSI) posts, the Karnataka Examination Authority (KEA) has implemented rigorous surveillance measures including webcasting to monitor activities real-time. Scheduled for October 3, the exam will be conducted with jammers installed at each exam centre to prevent use of electronic devices, including bluetooth, to minimise the risk of malpractice.

The exam will be held in a total of 163 centres in cities including Bengaluru, Vijayapura, Shivamogga, Kalaburagi, Dharwad, and Davanagere. A total of 66,900 candidates are eligible to take the exam across various centers, including 21,875 candidates in Bengaluru alone, according to a press release by KEA Executive Director H Prasanna.

All the candidates must be inside the exam center 30 minutes before the exam. Once inside, candidates can exit only after both the papers are completed. Late comers will not be allowed. Dress code is also mandatory.

A state-level command center has been set up at the KEA office in Bengaluru, with TVs installed to monitor the developments in each exam hall. Similarly, a district-level control room will also operate, he explained.

Entire process of receiving the question papers and unsealing the bundles will be webcasted. After the candidates enter the exam center, their fingerprints and photographs will be taken and matched online with the images they submitted during the application process. This will help prevent anyone from writing the exam on someone else's behalf. One ENT doctor will be appointed at each exam center, as in the past cases were reported where candidates attempted to cheat using very sensitive electronic devices hidden in their ears, the release added.

Actor Siddique | EXPRESS

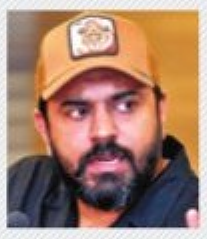
AFTER being granted interim protection from arrest by the Supreme Court in a rape case, actor Siddique made his first public appearance after nearly a week in hiding. The former AMMA general secretary emerged from his hideout on Tuesday evening to meet his lawyer, B Raman Pillai, at his office in Kacherippady, Kochi. Siddique was accompanied by his son, Shaheen Siddique, during the visit. According to sources close to Siddique, the meeting was held to discuss the next steps, including his appearance before the Special Investigation Team (SIT), investigating the sexual harassment allegations in the Malayalam film industry.

Advocate Sujesh Menon V B, who is a part of Siddique's legal team, had previously stated that Siddique was not required to appear before the SIT on his own, and the Supreme Court's order did not mandate his appearance. Siddique met his lawyer B Raman Pillai to discuss such issues, he said.

Meanwhile, Siddique's public appearance just a day after receiving interim protection from the Supreme Court raised questions, especially since the SIT had launched a massive search for the actor by issuing a lookout notice at airports.

Meanwhile, the SIT declined to reveal details about the next steps, including Siddique's interrogation. "We can't disclose anything to the public at this stage, but the SIT will take appropriate action at the right time," said SIT member Ajeetha Begum. When asked about Siddique's recent public appearance after days in hiding, she added, "We are investigating those who harboured the actor, and they will have to face action."

SIT QUESTIONS ACTOR NIVIN PAULY, RECORDS STATEMENT



Kochi: The Special Investigation Team (SIT) probing sexual harassment allegations in the Malayalam film industry interrogated actor Nivin Pauly in connection with an alleged gang rape. The SIT team arrived in Kochi on Tuesday morning and carried out the inquiry on a complaint lodged by a young female actor belonging to Kothamangalam. She had alleged that she was gang-raped in Dubai on December 14 and December 15, 2023, under the pretext of being offered a role in a film. SIT also recorded Nivin Pauly's statements on his claim of a conspiracy behind the complaint. In the complaint lodged at the Oonnukal police station in Ernakulam district, she alleged that Shreya, a resident of Thrissur took her to Dubai, where she was gang-raped in a hotel room by Nivin and his colleagues. The complainant also stated that they shot videos of the act on a mobile phone to blackmail her. The police have also registered a case against Shreya, film producer A K Sunil, of Thrissur, and three others named Binu, Basheer, and Kuttan. Nivin Pauly is the sixth accused.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

ACTOR Rajinikanth, who was admitted to the Apollo Hospitals in Greams Road on Monday, underwent a non-surgical transcatheter treatment for swelling in the main blood vessel leaving his heart, the hospital said in a bulletin on Tuesday. He is expected to be discharged within two days.

Senior interventional cardiologist Dr Sai Sathish conducted endovascular repair, a procedure which involves placing a stent in the aorta to completely seal off the swelling, and the actor is stable, the statement said. "We would like to let his well-wishers and fans know that the procedure went as planned. Mr Rajinikanth is stable and is doing well," it said.

Health Minister Ma Subramanian had told media earlier in the day that there was no surgical procedure involved and that the actor is fine. "His condition is being consistently monitored. There is no reason to worry," the minister said.

The actor had undergone a renal transplant in 2016.

Meanwhile, Chief Minister MK Stalin, in a post on 'X', wished the star a speedy recovery.

I WAS MISINTERPRETED, SAYS YATNAL

Belagavi: BJP MLA from VIjayapura Basanagouda Patil Yatnal has hit out at a section of media alleging that his recent statements made in Davanagere were misinterpreted and falsely reported. "What I said was that some factions within the Congress are actively working to remove Siddaramaiah from his post. However, the media has taken my words out of context, interpreting it differently," the MLA posted on 'X'. He said a certain section of media was making unsubstantiated and politically motivated allegations against him. Yatnal further urged the people not to fall for this false narrative and diversionary tactics and said it was a deliberate attempt to shift attention away from the pressing issues such as the deteriorating law and order situation in Karnataka.

The survey in Kaggalipura village was conducted on September 27 by a team of 120 students and 10 faculty members. The students tried identifying key issues faced by the adopted villages and development of a village development plan to address these challenges.

KSSEM Principal Prof Rama Narasimha K stated that the village development plan will target specific needs of adopted villages and will be submitted to the government for implementation.

Kammavari Sangham President R Rajagopal Naidu, secretary R Leela Shankar Rao, treasurer T Neerajakshulu Naidu and others took part in the programme.

After HC order, cops, officials conduct probe at Isha Foundation

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Coimbatore

OFFICIALS from the Coimbatore District Social Welfare Department, Child Protection Unit, District Child Welfare Committee and more than 70 police personnel conducted an inquiry at Isha Foundation's Ashram located at Velliangiri foothills on Tuesday.

The action follows the Madras High Court's directive on Monday to file a status report listing out the cases related to the foundation. The court passed the order while hearing a habeas corpus petition filed by S Kamaraj, a retired professor, who claimed that his two daughters were being held captive at the foundation in Coimbatore.

The petitioner had contended that the foundation had brainwashed and converted individuals into monks and had not even allowed them to meet their parents and relatives. He also said that his elder daughter contacted him on phone on June 15 and said his younger daughter has started a fast until death till he withdraws his petition against the yoga centre. The petitioner also pointed out that a criminal case under Pocso Act was registered against a doctor who worked at the institution on the charge of molesting 12 minor girls of a school. The bench later ordered the additional public prosecutor to submit a report during the next hearing on October 4 after an inquiry by the district police at the foundation.

Following the direction, Superintendent of Police K Karthikeyan, District Social Welfare Officer R Ambika and other officials held inquiry at the centre from 10am to 7.30pm.

Meanwhile, a statement released by Isha Foundation on Tuesday said, "Isha Foundation was founded by Sadhguru to impart yoga and spirituality to people. We believe that adult individual human beings have the freedom and the wisdom to choose their path. We do not ask people to get married or take up monkhood as these are individual choices."

IOA MESS THREATENS TO DERAIL INDIA'S BID FOR OLYMPICS 2036

The Indian Olympic Association is in an utter mess. The infighting has turned pungent— allegations and counter-allegations are flying thick between the IOA president and its executive committee (EC). The two sides upped the ante after the Paris Olympics. As a result, the IOA has come to a standstill. What is even more disturbing is that player-centric proposals are getting affected now. Over what? The CEO's appointment, which EC members have been opposing since January. The EC meeting last week ended in acrimony, without any resolution. All of this took place in front of Jerome Poivey, head of institutional relations and governance at the International Olympic Committee (IOC). It was a big embarrassment for the entire IOA including president P T Usha.

The fight has stalled the functioning of the IOA. The CEO, who has been working since January 15, is yet to be paid because the EC is still not on board. The EC, including the IOA chief, need to find a solution now because the bid process for the 2036 Games is stuck, among other things. The IOC told this newspaper that they have not yet been informed of the 'select region' where the Games are proposed. There is no bid committee to liaise between the IOA, IOC and other stakeholders like host city representatives. If the IOA president is to be believed, even the Olympic medal winners are yet to be felicitated more than one-and-a-half-months after Paris.

A dozen of the 15 EC members have chosen to go against the IOA president. The EC had cast aspersions on the entire process of electing the IOA chief and some top EC members. Usha, on the other hand, had sent showcause notices to five EC members who, according to an unknown complainant, are in violation of the sports code. There have been allegations of financial mismanagement on the EC, too. The IOC asked them to sort out the matters soon. But as of now, there is no solution in sight. Perhaps it's time the Supreme Court took note of the situation in the larger interest of sports in the country. The SC had said in 2022 that any objection to the IOA's constitution and election would have to be referred to the top court. Maybe it's time to make that call.

PROBE KERALA POLICE'S GOLD SMUGGLING NEXUS

WHAT lies at the centre of the confrontation between Left MLA P V Anvar and Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan is gold. When Anvar unleashed an unprecedented broadside on Pinarayi Vijayan last Thursday, of all the things he said on political and personal fronts, his claims on gold smuggling deserve serious scrutiny. The rest may be passed off as utterances of a frustrated politician who was repeatedly snubbed by the CPI(M) and the CM. Anvar alleged the involvement of some police officers in a gold smuggling-and-seizure racket and that they enjoyed the blessings of a few in the CPI(M)'s power circle. Since the home department is handled by the CM himself, the charge was indirectly laid at Vijayan's door.

There has indeed been a significant increase in the seizure of smuggled gold by the state's police, though technically it's the customs department's job to deal with cases of international smuggling. The official figures show that nearly 146 kg of gold was seized and 185 cases of smuggling registered by the police since 2022. In comparison, in two years before that, the police had seized only about a kg of gold in three cases. The charge is that there is an arrangement worked out with some customs personnel who let smuggled gold pass through airport checks, but then tip off cops. Police teams swoop down on the carriers once they are out of the airport and seize the gold; the allegation is also that only a small portion of the haul makes it to official records. If this is indeed what has been happening, the amount of gold pocketed by the racket could be significant.

Gold smuggling is not just about tax evasion—it's also about feeding the parallel economy; it's closely linked to informal money transfer systems such as hawala and other forms of money laundering. Official figures show a difference of about 300 tonnes between the domestic consumption of gold in India and its imports. This difference is made up through smuggling and, according to officials, Kerala contributes a big chunk. The charge is serious and a case fit for urgent intervention by central agencies. There must be a thorough investigation to bring out the truth, punish the culprits, and put an end to the practice that is undermining the country's economy.

QUICK TAKE

ON POLLUTION WATCH AGAIN

DELHI'S Commission for Air Quality Management has promised to deploy 'flying squads' from the Central Pollution Control Board to spot and prevent stubble-burning in Punjab and Haryana during October and November. The worry about pollution choking the national capital during the festive season is graver this year because Diwali coincides with parali, the end of the kharif harvest season. To begin, we should use satellite imagery to make the effort more efficient. What we have also learnt from years of trying to curb the practice is that a combination of carrots and sticks is needed. Also needed is representation of the region's farmers' organisations while the commission plans its actions.

Gandhi proposed new ways of thinking about spirituality, technology and innovation at his ashram. It is for contemporary Gandhians to revitalise his ideas with new explorations

REMEMBERING THE MANY SIDES OF THE MAHATMA

SHIV VISVANATHAN

Social scientist associated with the Compost Heap, a group researching alternative imaginations

WHENEVER people ask me about Mahatma Gandhi, I would remember conversations with my father. For him, Gandhi was even more unique than Albert Einstein. He told me the problems and issues that Gandhi raised were perennial. No one else could raise the spelling of the word better to such a classic level. It becomes the Plimsoll line for a kindergarten ethics. In that sense, Gandhi's questions were always contemporary.

He was not a Luddite. People forget that the kind of charkha he introduced was a more efficient reinvention made by the Polish theosophist and engineer Maurice Frydman. Frydman, who went on to have over a 100 engineering patents, was intrigued by Gandhi.

One must also add that the loudspeaker as a political instrument in India was introduced at one of Gandhi's rallies. I recollect an even more iconic story about a Gandhi rally. He was addressing a group of workers in Manchester after a swadeshi boycott. He looked at the state of the plant and said, "No wonder the Japanese are beating you."

For my father, Gandhi was someone you learnt from. I remember we were travelling in a local train from Jamshedpur to Kharagpur, where my father occasionally taught. He was sitting at the door when one of his chappals fell off. He was not upset—instead, to our surprise, he immediately took the other one off. He said, "One lost shoe is a crisis and a pair is a gift [to someone else]." A message of solidarity. Gandhi, for him, represented future solidarities.

What made Gandhi's philosophy perennial was his use of the body as a model and metaphor. For Gandhi, the human body was perpetually contemporary and vulnerable. It became an index of a civilisation's sense of violence. The body was also a site for experiments. Who else would boldly call the body a source of experiments? The body as a perennial metaphor received the everyday questions of ethics.

One can understand why scientists like Jagdish Chandra Bose and others treated him as a contemporary. In many senses, Gandhi thought like a scientist. He was aware of the question why the Sermon on the Mount had the status Pythagorean theorems had in geometry. He even dreamt of teaching maths through the charkha.

MANDAR PARDIKAR

Gandhi was more concerned with innovation than with the dullness of professions. He wanted to revitalise the modern entity called the city and create a different organicity around it. This is why he said the only thing we many need from the West was a good sewage system, as the ones created by English social reformer Edwin Chadwick. As Gandhi used his ashram as a perpetual site for innovation, Gandhians like Satish Chandra Mukerjee experimented on the flush tank, which they saw at the heart of modern technologies.

What made Gandhi classic and contemporary at the same time was his childlike sense of humour. He could be like Alice in the Wonderland. Once industrialist Jamnalal Bajaj gifted Gandhi's ashram a Ford car. It worked for a few weeks and then collapsed. Gandhi had it pulled by two bullocks. When visitors came, he introduced the contraption as "Meet my ox-Ford." We need to bring back the sense of play to the political to encounter differences of perspectives. Use of humour does not have to be any less serious.

I remember another of his encounters with a scientist. Once, C V Raman had to leave his wife with Gandhi as he went for a meeting. When Raman hurried back, he asked how she was. Gandhi wickedly said, "Her science is better than yours was before you left."

His humour gave him a sense of perspective. When Mussolini asked him to review his troops, Gandhi was surprised but he agreed. All he said was, "All of you look very healthy to me."

Yet, Gandhi had a deep understanding of innocence—not just the physical brutality of violence. He understood and classified varieties of violence from obsolescence to triage to genocide. It was Gandhi's idea of iatrogeny as doctor-induced illness that made him argue for a greater responsibility from patients. Only a Gandhi could understand a patient getting a Nobel prize for understanding the language of suffering. The body periodically returns to reiterate its importance.

It was the Scottish biologist and town planner Patrick Geddes who noted that while German science was troubling with jackboots, India was creating a post-Germanic science. He talked with Gandhi how Bose had created some of those post-Germanic domains. In fact, Bose, Gandhi and Rabindranath Tagore were planning Shantiniketan as a place for a new agricultural science. One wishes the national movement world rework itself in terms of these key activities.

Gandhi also integrated the idea of responsibility. He was clear of the necessity of accountability. But he went on to add trusteeship, sacrifice and caring at a different level. This is why Gandhi's experimentation with ethics is so critical.

One has to note that his language was always ordinary. Even his theorising was transparent. That is why Gandhi remains more democaratic than many others. He realised democracy demanded an ethical vulnerability of a different kind.

For Gandhi, India needed to operate its traditional institutions. He wanted the ashram to revitalise the city and create new, innovative means for both technology and spirituality. In a way, this representation of Gandhian life is relevant even today as we look for models beyond the Anthropocene. A new way of thinking about spirituality, technology and innovation. One wishes that, instead of falling into orthodoxy, the ashram had created a new hermeneutics for India.

One must add that Gandhi's idea of childhood was imaginative. Indian nationalism was not just about the nation-state, but about rethinking the idea of childhood and its future. What one needs is an update of these facets to understand the time people spent on thinking about childhood. This creativity was the gateway to the creativity of the future.

One mistake several in the current generation make is to think that Gandhi is outdated. It is Gandhians who need to come up with new experiments, new books, new explorations—to renew the idea of India as a plural civilisation.

BEYOND THE GREAT FLUSH: MORE OF SWACHH BHARAT

AKSHAY ROUT

Former Director General, Swachh Bharat Mission

SCIENCE journal Nature recently reconfirmed what Swachh Bharat implementers, activists and partners have been saying all this time. Research led by Suman Chakrabarti of the International Food Policy Research Institute, US and published in the peer-reviewed journal showed that freedom from open defecation has helped avert 60,000-70,000 infant deaths a year in India. The infant mortality rate (deaths per 1,000 live births) in the country fell from 39 in 2014 to 28 in 2020. The authors recommended low- and middle-income countries to follow the example of the Swachh Bharat Mission (SBM).

The World Health Organization reported a similar finding earlier. Other credible studies suggest families in open defecation free (ODF) villages save ₹50,000 a year on health costs. ODF areas have distinctly less contamination of groundwater, too.

It started on independence day in 2014, when the prime minister linked the absence of safe sanitation to the predicament of women in the country. The following October 2, the SBM set off in the pursuit of an India free of open defecation within a daunting timeframe of five years.

What followed could be counted among the most magical achievements for a public programme anywhere. Indians across sections came together in an unprecedented manner for the cause of cleanliness. The world's largest sanitation scheme also became the world's largest behaviour-change miracle. The provision of 120 million toilets under the SBM have meaning only because 600 million open defecators confirm usage.

This achievement, despite occasional skirmishes over the data, calls for celebration—especially when some of India's other socio-economic parameters are still not among the best. Celebrate we must, because India has achieved this better sanitation and higher cleanliness several years before the 2030 deadline set by the UN's sustainable development goals.

But the 10th anniversary of the SBM is not without questions. How and how soon can one get rid of the piles of dirt we can see around? Will there be freedom from the swamping plastic waste? Will grey water in ever-increasing quantities be treated lest they pollute our water bodies? And there is the issue of holding up toilet usage. Sustaining ODF status will remain a sticky task threatened by a possible reversal of habits.

The priority has moved from toilet numbers to the bigger task of waste management. Used water has acquired higher attention. Sampoorn Swachhata is the goal of the new phase that commenced soon after all states declared themselves as ODF in 2019. India's 4,800 cities should become garbage free at the earliest, with remediation of about 2,400 mountains of dumpsites on the periphery of several cities, and with no new waste dumps allowed to come up.

As the Clean India Mission completes a decade, its priority has moved from constructing toilets to the bigger task of waste management. Today, four times more urban waste gets processed than was done in 2014. But questions remain on other cleanliness goals

Amidst competing priorities in the life of a nation, the SBM retains the strength of adequacy of resources. Both rural and urban components of the mission have been supported by over ₹1.40 lakh crore each in the second phase. The programme is further boosted by a 60 percent commitment to water and sanitation services out of the sizeable devolution to local bodies made by the 15th Finance Commission.

It is reassuring that the SBM is bouncing back, alive to its critical linkage with the larger environment and climate, and its role in India's circular economy. About 40 percent of the staggering 22 crore tonnes of legacy dumps have been neutralised. Close to 80 percent of massive urban waste now gets processed compared to a mere 16 percent in 2014. Door to door collection of waste at the ward level that started from nothing is about to saturate. Material recovery and waste processing facilities are multiplying, though the need is significantly more. Waste to energy plants and recycling startups are on the ground backed by technology and evolving policy support. Private entrepreneurs are looking at the waste management sector as a profitable industry.

More technology and enterprise does not take away the community from the mission. Citizen engagement remains at its core. A quick example is the individual and community responsibility for source segregation of waste. If the 3Rs (Reduce, Reuse, and Recycle) are seen as the long-term answer to waste eradication and a sustainable environment, the required restraint and civic habits must be ingrained in families and the neighbourhood. In the words of PM Modi, founder and chief advocate of the SBM, the task must carry on 'generation after generation, with alertness, continually, without being tired or stopping'.

It is significant, hence, that millions of Indians have descended on public spaces this fortnight for shramdaan in a high display of collective action. By specifically taking up over 8 lakh locations of rigid filth called cleanliness target units, the Swachhata Hi Seva (SHS) campaign this year conveys business and determination. About 270 million citizens have already joined the efforts, and the number is growing. In recognition and solidarity with its true guardians, over one and a half lakh special camps for health and welfare of sanitation workers are planned by the side. The mission has systematically placed safai mitras on the pedestal they deserve.

This countrywide schedule marks a reiteration that swachhata is everyone's business. The purpose is to give over ownership to the larger community and integrate cleanliness into daily habits. The past 10 years have created a heritage on which the future of sustainable and comprehensive sanitation can be built. The SHS 2024 that culminates on Gandhiji's birth anniversary, also called Swachh Bharat Diwas, is a renewal of the promise.

SC stay on demolition extended

Says a person being an accused or convict can't be a ground for demolition of their property

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY @New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Tuesday extended the stay on demolitions without prior permission of the top court and also reserved its order on laying down pan-India directives or Standard Operating Procedure (SOPs).

A two-judge bench of Justices B R Gavai and K V Vishwanathan said that a person being an accused or a convict can't be a ground for demolition of their property. "It is no ground to demolish the property of a person, merely he/she is accused in some case," it said.

Justice Gavai, heading the bench, said that its directions will be applicable to pan-India, irrespective of the religion, regarding the demolition of accused persons' properties.

"We are a secular country. Whatever directions will be passed will apply pan-India irrespective of the religion, for all the citizens," the apex court said. The petitioners -- Jamiat Ulama-i-Hind and others -- had moved the top court seeking appropriate directions to various state governments, including that of Uttar Pradesh, to ensure no further demolition of properties of those accused in cases of rioting and violence takes place.

While hearing the batch of petitions, the apex court highlighted that its directions for bulldozer action and anti-encroachment drives will be for all citizens, irrespective of the religion they follow.

"Whether it be a temple or dargah, it has to go. Public safety is paramount," the bench observed.

While warning the encroachers that illegal and or unauthrosied constructions have to be demolished as per law, the apex court said, "We will ensure that our order does not help encroachers."

The SC also said it was mulling that to protect a property (alleged unauthorised structure) after demolition order is passed, say 10-15 days to allow exercise of appellate remedy and in case, a court entertains the grievance, the question of stay should be decided within a month. "The illegal structure will have to go if built in contravention of statutory rules," it said.

Senior advocate C.U. Singh, appearing for one of the petitioners, said that the notice period should be uniform across the country and that there should be a clear mandate for serving notice on a person lodged in jail or custody.

Lawyers pressing for urgent case hearings irks CJI

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

CHIEF Justice of India D Y Chandrachud on Tuesday deprecated the practice of mentioning a case for urgent hearing by different lawyers, saying that he will not allow this as it puts his "personal credibility" at stake.

At times, lawyers, in their bid to get their cases listed for urgent hearings, take chances and change their advocates to get the same cases mentioned again and again on different dates.

"Stop this practice of repeated mentioning by different counsels. All of you are just trying to take a chance. Whatever little discretion I have as the Chief Justice will never be exercised in your favour, because there is an attempt to take this court for a ride," the CJI said after hearing a mention by a lawyer on Tuesday.

The top court made the observations when a lawyer mentioned a case related to the lapse of a mining lease that needed urgent listing.

Rover landing impacted nearby basins: Paper

THE Chandrayaan-3 mission with the Vikram-lander and the Pragyan rover landed on the high latitude highland region near the south pole of the Moon. The landing site is 350km from the South Pole- Aitken (SPA) basin rim, an ancient and the largest impact basin in the solar system.

The Pragyan rover Navcam and Optical High Resolution Camera images gave the first clue about the linear, distal ejecta rays or groove-like structures possibly formed due to the distant impacts deposited at the Chandrayaan-3 landing site. The images of Pragyan rover revealed that the landing site is devoid of greater than 1m boulders along the traverse. The images also revealed typical highland terrain, the release said.

The scientists noted that the regional exploration around the Chandrayaan-3 landing site revealed a near semi-circular like structure, highly degraded in nature. This semi-circular structure encompassed the station, Shiv Shakti (yellow star).

Further detailed geomorphological and topographical analysis revealed that the semi-circular structure is a heavily degraded crater structure or a buried impact crater with a diameter of 160km. This semi-circular structure was highly degraded due to the mantling of thick ejecta deposits from the SPA basin and followed by many other complex craters throughout the geological history of the Moon.

The scientists also noted that due to the landing, the site had undergone a series of changes. The paper said that it impacted nearby and distant basins and complex crater ejecta material. "We found that the SPA basin is the major contributor, which deposited nearly 1400m of ejecta material and 11 other basins deposited 580m of ejecta. The other complex craters contributed up to 90m of ejecta. Meanwhile, secondary craters of a few km in diameter located adjacent to the Vikram lander contributed to 0.5m ejecta, which are crucial target material for the Pragyan rover in situ analysis," the scientists said.

LAC remains sensitive, says Army chief

MAYANK SINGH @New Delhi

THE situation along the Line of Actual Control (LAC) in eastern Ladakh is stable, but remains sensitive, Chief of Army Staff General Upendra Dwivedi said on Tuesday.

Though a 'positive signalling' is coming out from the diplomatic talks between the two sides on resolution of the row, the execution of any plan depends on the military commanders on the ground, Gen Dwivedi said. He was speaking at the Chanakya Defence Dialogue event here.

India and China held two rounds of diplomatic talks in July and August to find an early resolution of outstanding issues in their standoff on the LAC in eastern Ladakh.

"We want the situation that existed pre-April 2020 restored, whether it's ground occupation/situation, buffer zones created or the patrolling that has been planned. Till the time that situation is not restored, the situation remains sensitive and we are fully operationally prepared to face any contingency," Gen Dwivedi said at the event organised by the Army in collaboration with the Centre for Land Warfare Studies, a Delhi-based think tank.

Centre releases ₹5.9K cr as flood relief aid for 14 states

MUKESH RANJAN @New Delhi

THE Union government on Tuesday released ₹5858.60 crore to 14 flood-affected states as central share from the State Disaster Response Fund (SDRF) and advance from the National Disaster Response Fund (NDRF), officials in the Ministry of Home Affairs (MHA) said.

A senior MHA official said, "The released fund include ₹1,492 crore to Maharashtra,₹1,036 crore to Andhra Pradesh, ₹716 crore to Assam, ₹655.60 crore to Bihar, ₹600 crore to Gujarat, ₹468 crore to West Bengal, ₹416.80 crore to Telangana, ₹145.60 crore to Kerala and ₹189.20 crore to Himachal Pradesh, as all these states have been affected due to extremely heavy rainfall, floods and landslides during the southwest monsoon this year."

Quoting a statement issued by the MHA, the official said that among the northeastern states Manipur got ₹50 crore, Mizoram ₹21.60 crore, Nagaland ₹19.20 crore, Sikkim ₹23.60 crore and Tripura has received ₹25 crore.

Noting that the central government led by Prime Minister Narendra Modi stands shoulder to shoulder with the states affected by natural calamities in mitigating them, the MHA in the statement said, "Inter-Ministerial Central Teams (IMCTs) were sent in flood-affected states of Assam, Mizoram, Kerala, Tripura, Nagaland, Gujarat, Andhra Pradesh, Telangana and Manipur for an on-the-spot assessment of the damages."

Further, IMCTs will be sent shortly for making an on-the-spot assessment of damage in states of Bihar and West Bengal, which have also recently been affected by floods, it said, adding that after the assessment reports of IMCTs are received, additional financial assistance from NDRF "will be approved to the disaster affected states, as per the established procedure".

IMD predicts severe winter after surplus rain

JITENDRA CHOUBEY @New Delhi

AFTER extreme summer heat and above-normal southwest monsoonal rainfall, get ready for a severe winter and longer spell of cold wave this winter. The India Meteorological Department has predicted a higher possibility of drop in minimum temperatures in November-December due to the emergence of La Nina phenomenon.

Typically occurring towards the end of the monsoon season, La Nina, the cooler counterpart to El Nino, is characterised by lower sea surface temperatures in the equatorial Pacific sea, bringing a sharp drop in temperatures, often coupled with increased rainfall, raising concerns about the possibility of an extreme winter ahead. However, La Nina prediction during monsoon proved wrong.

The IMD also predicted above-normal average rainfall over south peninsular India, many areas of central India and northeast India during the post-monsoon season (October-December). The average rainfall is most likely to be above normal i.e. more than 112% of Long Period Average. However, most parts of northwest, some parts of northeast and southernmost parts of India are likely to receive below-normal rainfall. In October, most parts of India are likely to receive normal to above normal rainfall except some parts of northeast and northwest India and a few pockets in the south peninsula.

The IMD underlines the reasons as continuation of favourable climatic conditions, such as existing neutral El Nino-Southern Oscillation (ENSO) conditions, neutral Indian Ocean Dipole (IOD) conditions and above-average sea surface temperatures prevailing over the Indian Ocean.

The IMD has also predicted above-normal maximum temperatures over most parts of the country except some parts from central India and above-normal minimum temperatures over most parts.

Analysing the southwest monsoon (SWM), the IMD said the monsoon was above normal despite absence of La Nina conditions. The country has received 934.8 mm rainfall against 868.6 mm -- around 8% above normal. The deficient rainfall was recorded only in three subdivisions encompassing 11% of the country's geographic area.

This year the southwest monsoon (SWM) set in over Kerala on May 30 against the normal date of June 1 and covered the entire country on July 2, against the normal date of July 8. Moreover, the SWM had withdrawn from some parts of west Rajasthan and Kachchh on September 23 against the normal date of September 17.

However, another peculiar feature of this year's SWM was that it was quite weaker in Indo-Gangetic plains while excess in arid regions like Gujarat and western Rajasthan.

"In September, there were record three low pressure systems and three depressions which moved towards central and western India instead of Northwest like Uttarakhand and Himachal Pradesh and caused excess rainfall," said Mrutyunjay Mohapatra, Director General, Meteorology. Further, monsoon trough mostly lied along normal to south of the normal position, which remained active.

Different regions are expected to experience varying degrees of winter severity. IMD says northern states like Himachal Pradesh, Uttarakhand and J&K may see frigid conditions. Additionally, the combination of colder weather could impact agriculture.

WHO alarm over unmet care needs for elderly across globe

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @New Delhi

PEOPLE aged 60 years and above continue to experience unmet health care needs, whether they live in low-, middle-, or high-income countries, the World Health Organisation (WHO) said on Tuesday. On the occasion of the International Day of Older Persons, the WHO said around two in three people who reach older age are likely to require longer-term support and care from others to perform activities of daily living, such as eating, moving around, or bathing.

The world health body called for action to not only strengthen but transform the way countries provide care and support for older people, especially as the halfway point of the UN Decade of Healthy Ageing (2021–2030) is approaching.

By 2030, it is projected that one in six people in the world will be aged 60 years or over. Furthermore, 80% of older people will be living in low- and middle-income countries by 2050, making healthy ageing a truly global priority.

"We all require support to care for ourselves at some point in our lives, but we are more likely to require care the longer we live," said Dr Anshu Banerjee, Director of the Department of Maternal, Newborn, Child and Adolescent Health and Ageing at WHO. "However, evidence shows that care and support systems across the world are not yet prepared to meet the needs of older people."

Ageist stereotypes that incorrectly assume poor health is natural and unavoidable in later life prevent many older people from receiving the care they need. These stereotypes are commonly held by both care professionals and older people, the WHO said.

This year's theme for the International Day of Older Persons is "Ageing with Dignity: The Importance of Strengthening Care and Support Systems for Older Persons Worldwide." This theme underscores the critical role played by countries in providing health and long-term care services in maintaining the health and well-being that older people need to be and do what they value, WHO said.

According to the UN Decade of Healthy Ageing progress report, 2021–2023: Only around 1 in 4 reporting countries have enough financial and political resources to implement integrated care responsive to older people's needs, and only 1 in 3 have the same for long-term care. Only 16% of low-income countries, which heavily rely on unpaid informal care, have a training programme for informal caregivers of older people. Less than 60% of reporting countries include long-term care in their national competency framework for geriatric care workers.

The UN Decade of Healthy Ageing calls on countries to deliver person-centred, integrated care responsive to older people's needs, focusing on supporting every person to meet their needs and fulfil their goals. The WHO also said there is a need for integrating health services across disciplines to guarantee every person gets good health care.

Wangchuk and 150 others detained at Singhu border

UJWAL JALALI & SHEKHAR SINGH
@New Delhi

CLIMATE activist Sonam Wangchuk, along with around 150 other people, was detained at the Haryana-Delhi Singhu border while marching towards the national capital amplify their demand for the Sixth Schedule status and statehood for Union Territory Ladakh.

The Sixth Schedule of the Constitution contains provisions related to the administration of tribal areas in some northeastern states. Wangchuk (58) leads 'Delhi Chalo Padyatra,' a month-long march that began in Leh. It is being spearheaded by the Leh Apex Body (LAB) along with the Kargil Democratic Alliance (KDA). The activist conveyed his detention through social media where he shared a video of his bus entering the capital amid heavy police deployment.

In the 146-second video clip, Wangchuk claimed forces were deployed at the Ladakh Bhawan in Delhi, and in areas where students from Ladakh live. While the police remained tight-lipped, a student leader, who was also detained and was in police custody, spoke to this daily. He said the entire batch of activists accompanying Wangchuk was taken to various police stations.

"We have been in Delhi Police custody since Monday night. We are being told that we will be released soon and dropped near Singhu border," said the student leader over the phone. He has been detained at a police station along with 19 of his colleagues.

Official sources said Wangchuk was detained after the police imposed prohibitory orders under section 163 of the Bharatiya Nagrik Suraksha Sanhita (BNSS) for the next six days. The police also cited intelligence inputs that some "unsocial elements" are likely to attempt to create nuisance in the first week of October.

'We'll be freed soon'

While the police remained tight-lipped, a detained student leader spoke to this newspaper over the phone. "We have been in Delhi Police custody since Monday night. We are being told that we will be released soon and dropped near Singhu border," said the student leader.

Detention of protestors unacceptable, says Oppn

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

OPPOSITION leaders, including Congress president Mallikarjun Kharge, LoP Rahul Gandhi, and Arvind Kejriwal, on Tuesday attacked the Modi government over the detention of climate activist Sonam Wangchuk at the Delhi border. Wangchuk and more than 100 protestors were marching to Delhi demanding Sixth Schedule status for Ladhak, among other issues, when they were detained.

"Why are elderly citizens being detained at Delhi's border for standing up for Ladakh's future? Modi ji, as with the farmers, this 'Chakravyuh' will be broken, and so will your arrogance. You will have to listen to Ladakh's voice," Rahul wrote on X.

Terming the detention a "cowardly action" which was deeply undemocratic, Congress chief Kharge posted on X, "The arrogance of the Modi government consumed in power has detained a group of citizens from Ladakh peacefully marching to Delhi. This is nothing but a cowardly action and is deeply undemocratic... " AAP leader Arvind Kejriwal said, "Sometimes they stop farmers from coming to Delhi, sometimes they stop people from Ladakh. Is Delhi the property of one person?... "SP chief Akhilesh Yadav said if the Centre does not listen to the voice of the border, it will be called its political deafness."

Congress MP KC Venugopal said the BJP was repeating sins that have caused its downfall. The BJP is silly to think such acts of cowardice are going to deter those who have embarked on a Gandhian mission," he added.

The Jat factor in battle for 90 Haryana seats

Ruling BJP and Oppn Cong are also wooing OBCs and SCs – a formidable combination

HARPREET BAJWA @Chandigarh

FOR many, Haryana has come to be known as the Jat land, underlining the predominance of the Jat community in the small state that broke its umbilical cord with Punjab in a three-way separation (1966), mostly on linguistic grounds. With Punjab at the core of the new entities, Himachal Pradesh and Haryana became its cousins. Since then the Jat factor has been the quintessence of Haryana's identity. But the community is not in the majority; it is second to OBCs. That explains why Devi Lal (late former deputy prime minister of Janata regime) remains a revered figure and why Chautalas are still a force to reckon with.

The Jats remain the pivot of poll outcomes. Unless, they are split or are overwhelmed in caste calculations by OBCs and SC votes. That's what the bipolar Haryana political fight involving the ruling BJP and opposition Congress is about.

The Jat versus non-Jat divide is again visible. Cutting across caste lines and regions, issues like the Agnipath scheme, restoration of old pension scheme, unemployment, government jobs, old-age pension and monthly financial assistance to women, besides law and order are likely to play a key role.

Persistent rage

Then, the lingering anger among farmers. It started during the nationwide protests against the now withdrawn farm laws. The anger turned into frustration when the BJP government stopped the farmers at the Singhu border between Haryana and Delhi. Farmers from Punjab, too, are stopped at Shambu border between Punjab and Haryana border.

The protests by the farmers continue to haunt BJP candidates in these elections also. Former Home Minister and Ambala Cantt candidate Anil Vij, Naraingarh candidate Pawan Saini, Mullana candidate Santosh Sarwan, Narwana candidate Krishan Bedi, Tohana candidate Devender Babli and Uklana candidate Anoop Dhanak have faced farmers' wrath during campaigning.

Equally significant is the wrestlers' protest. Top grapplers like Vinesh Phogat, Sakshi Malik and Bajrang Punia protested against the then the all-powerful Wrestling Federation of India (WFI) chief Brijbhushan Sharan Singh for the alleged sexual harassment.

The small state sends a large number of youths to the Army. The Agniveer scheme has now become contentious despite the BJP government announcing that Agniveer youths would be given paramilitary and government jobs.

Caste factor

The Bharamin-SC-OBC combination and non-Jat vote bank could be a deciding factor, says a former sarpanch of a village in Jind. The BJP is focusing on the GT Road belt and southern Haryana, though it did not do that well during the Lok Sabha polls in these areas. The party hopes JJP-ASP and INLD-BSP alliances would make some dent in Congress vote bank. The party leaders believe the Jat vote will be split between Congress, INLD and Jannayak Janata Party.

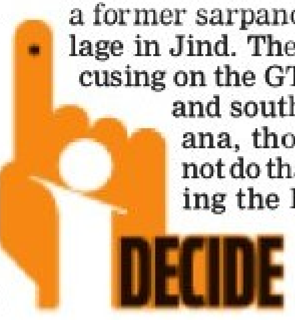
Southern Haryana holds immense political heft: it has 27 assembly segments in three Lok Sabha seats (Gurugram, Faridabad, and Bhiwani-Mahendragarh). The BJP won all three parliamentary seats in the recent Lok Sabha polls.

The party is also focusing on consolidating OBC votes. The change in leadership in the BJP has further added intrigue. M L Khattar was replaced with an OBC face Nayab Singh Saini, a relatively unknown face but important for garnering support from the OBC community.

On the other hand, the Congress aims to capitalise on the 10 years of anti-incumbency against BJP and hopes to consolidate Jat-SC-Muslim votes.

Rebel trouble

Both parties are facing troubles from rebel candidates in more than 20 assembly constituencies. The JJP-ASP and INLD-BSP alliances are hoping to change this bipolar contest into multi- cornered fight.



Visible divide

The Jat versus non-Jat divide is again visible. Cutting across caste lines and regions, issues like the Agnipath scheme for armed forces, restoration of old pension scheme, unemployment, jobs, law and order may play a key role.

Parties' selection

- BJP tickets: 22 OBCs, 16 Jats and 17 SCs
- Congress: 20 OBCs, 28 Jats and 17 SCs
- In 36 seats, both parties have candidates from the same caste

JMM draws line on seat deal, says Cong free to go it alone

MUKESH RANJAN @ Ranchi

> There is a lot of pressure in our organisation on the basis of the works done in the last five years that the JMM should contest elections on all 81 seats and we are fully prepared
>
> Supriyo Bhattacharya

THE Jharkhand Mukti Morcha (JMM) on Tuesday threatened the Congress that the party will contest the Assembly polls on all 81 seats if any question is raised on the leadership of Hemant Soren by the coalition partners.

JMM's reply came in response of the recent statement made by Jharkhand Congress in-charge Ghulam Ahmed Mir that if the Congress party wins 30-40 seats in the Assembly polls, there might be a possibility that both JMM and Congress have Chief Ministers on rotational basis.

JMM General Secretary and Spokesperson Supriyo Bhattacharya cleared that those who agree to contest Jharkhand polls under JMM's leadership are welcome, otherwise the party is fully prepared to contest all 81 seats in Jharkhand.

"There is a lot of pressure in our organisation on the basis of the works done by us during the last five years that the JMM should contest elections on all 81 seats and we are fully prepared for that. If anybody has any confusion...... they should remember 2009, 2014 and 2019 as well. Therefore, I would not make any further comments on it....... We are running a coalition government and our statements should also be on the same lines," said Bhattacharya.

They must remember that JMM has won seats for them in the Lok Sabha, he added. Assembly elections will be contested only under the leadership of Hemant Soren and on the principles of party Chief Shibu Soren, he added.

Bhattacharya further added that those who are ready to accept JMM's leadership are welcome; otherwise they are so strong on all 81 seats that they will win at least 55 seats if they go it alone in the Assembly polls.

JMM had emerged as the single largest party in the 2019 Assembly polls winning 30 seats, while the Congress won 16 seats. In the 2024 Lok Sabha elections Congress contested on seven seats and the JMM fought on five seats. One seat each was given to the RJD and Left. On the occasion, Mir called upon the workers that they will have to work hard so that they can get at least 25-30 seats in Jharkhand Assembly.

'Rotational basis'

JMM's reply came in response of the remark made by state Congress in-charge Ghulam Ahmed Mir that if the Congress wins 30-40 seats in the Assembly polls, both parties may have CMs on rotational basis

MahaYuti will come back to power: Shah's Maha pitch

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

> The state BJP unit will draw up a plan ahead of the polls. Party workers should reach out up to the ward level and it will ensure our victory. Do not ask new members to vote for the BJP
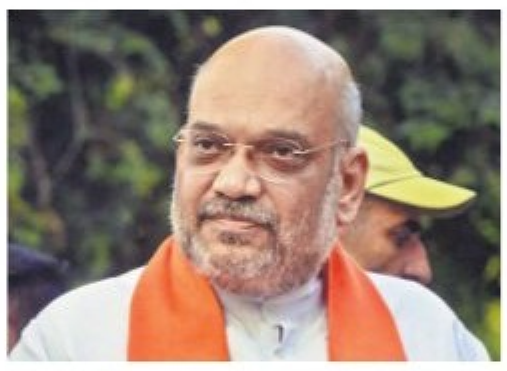
>
> Amit Shah



UNION minister Amit Shah on Tuesday told party workers that no one could stop the ruling Mahayuti led by the BJP from returning to power in the state Assembly polls due soon. "In 2029 state polls, the BJP alone will be able to form the government in Maharashtra," he said.

A senior party leader quoted Shah as saying that people re-elect parties that perform well. The meeting was attended by deputy chief minister Devendra Fadnavis, Maharashtra BJP chief Chandrashekar Bawankule, and Mumbai party unit chief Ashish Shelar.

"Shah told us that party workers should work hard to win as many seats as possible and that we should help alliance partners to win," said a party leader who attended the meeting with the Home Minister. Shah told party workers that they should approach voters as an alliance partner of a coalition and convey our stand with clarity. In his third visit to Maharashtra in a fortnight, Shah asked party workers to iron out internal differences before the elections that are expected to be held in November, BJP sources said.

He asked local leaders to appoint 10 workers for every polling booth. These workers should remain active within the booth jurisdiction from Dussehra until the last day of the campaign, Shah said. "An organisation where workers function in different directions never succeeds. We need to address these differences before the elections," Shah stressed.

"The state BJP unit will draw up a plan ahead of the polls. Party workers should reach out up to the ward level and it will ensure our victory," he said. The senior BJP leader also asked workers to refrain from seeking votes when enrolling new party members. "Do not ask new members to vote for the BJP when registering. Once they become members, they will realise the importance of voting. Party workers should aspire to add 20 new voters in every booth," he said.

"There are certain types of tasks which no one wants to undertake. However, a loyal party worker takes up critical tasks and completes them," Shah was further quoted as saying.

10 workers for each poll booth

Amit Shah asked local leaders to appoint 10 workers in each booth. They should remain active in booth jurisdiction from Dussehra until the last day of the campaign, Shah said.

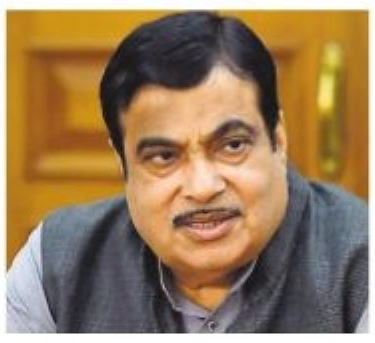
Major boost for robust road infrastructure

An approval of ₹11,000 crore by the union road transport and highways minister Nitin Gadkari for the construction and development of four major national highways is expected to propel Chhattisgarh road infrastructure, that will pave the way to put the state on a higher growth trajectory. The union minister discussed with CM Vishnu Deo Sai over the progress of national highways in the state and further approved to prepare the detailed project reports. The need to address hurdles that delay the projects besides the clearances from the forest department, other pending issues were taken up on priority.



Employment growth ratio in state very high

Employment generation remains a challenge for many governments. And with job opportunities created especially in rural and tribal areas, Chhattisgarh took a leap forward, surpassing bigger states like UP, Maharashtra, Rajasthan and recorded a significantly low unemployment rate during a year July 2023 to June 2024. The latest Periodic Labour Force Survey (PLFS) ranked Chhattisgarh as fifth among the Indian states in the scale with the lowest unemployment rate. The report by National Sample Survey Organisation (NSSO) highlights the effective steps taken by the state.

Trust deficit among Maoist cadres

Top leadership of outlawed CPI (Maoist) is apparently shaken owing to the major setbacks faced for the first time when their senior cadres belonging to Telangana, Odisha, Maharashtra and other regions were neutralised in Bastar region in 2024. Maoist leaders from outside the state have begun suspecting their local cadres who are now harassed, creating distrust and suspicion. Bastar police believe such a situation is creating grounds of revolt within the organisation. So far, 153 Maoists have been killed by security forces this year in Bastar zone. Some Maoists cadres were recently killed on allegation of being acting as police informers to banned outfit.

Docs resume 'total ceasework' over hosp safety

SULAGNA SENGUPTA @Kolkata

JUNIOR doctors protesting against the horrific rape-murder at RG Kar Medical College and Hospital on Tuesday resumed indefinite "total ceasework" demanding various issues, including safety and security at hospitals and suspension of the health secretary. The move came after a a governing body meeting.

On September 21, the medics had rejoined duties partially after a 42-day protest.

The junior doctors placed a 10-point demand, including tightening of security in hospitals and a mechanism to monitor vacants beds. They threatened to intensify their stir if their demands are not met.

The junior doctors claimed that they were not happy with the CBI probe and demanded immediate arrest of all the culprits in the August 9 rape-murder of a medic at RG Kar Medical College and Hospital.

"We do not see any positive approach from the state government to fulfill our demands for safety and security. There is no attempt to keep the other promises made during the meetings with Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee. In the given situation, we are left with no choice other than opting for full total 'ceasework', starting today," Aniket Mahato, one of the agitating junior doctors, said.

"We are anguished over the slow progress of RG Kar rape-murder investigation. We have been living under fear since August 9. Even dissolution of some committees at state-run hospitals are yet to take place, despite CMinister Mamata Banerjee's assurance. We demand the immediate removal of the health secretary."

"It has been 10 days we resumed work, but none of the assurances are yet to fulfilled by the government. We see no progress. We are yet to get a safe working environment at government-run hospitals. So, we will go for "total cease ork" from Wednesday," they said.

Meanwhile, thousands of people walked a 5-km stretch in Kolkata, shouting slogans and carrying placards, demanding justice for the doctor. The rallyists, under the banner of Joint Platform of Doctors, walked in a procession from College Square to Rabindra Sadan along J L Nehru Road. .

The rally slowed the movement of traffic in some areas near New Market and Esplanade, where footfall remains high for Durga Puja shopping.

Meanwhile, TMC MP Kalyan Bandhyopadhyay said, "We would like to see how they stop Durga puja. We are ready to face the consequences."

The Supreme Court on Monday expressed dissatisfaction over "tardy" progress by the West Bengal government in installation of CCTVs and construction of toilets and separate resting rooms in government medical colleges, and directed the state to complete ongoing work by October 15. The top court was hearing a suo motu case related to the rape-murder at R G Kar.

CPM extends support to doctors' movement

The CPM on Tuesday extended its support to the protests that followed the RG Kar rape-murder. "The Central Committee extended its support to the popular movement, which is ongoing in West Bengal against the gruesome rape and murder of a PG medical student," the CPM said.

Uproar over lack of facilities at relief camps as Bihar reels under severe flood

RAMASHANKAR @Patna

HUNDREDS of villages remain marooned in flood-hit Bihar districts two days after river embankments were breached at many places. Major rivers are flowing above the danger mark as people displaced by the floods have been forced to live under the open sky on roads and elevated parts of the villages.

They have been struggling for food, drinking water, milk for children and fodder for their animals. "We have nothing to eat or feed our animals. We are forced to drink flood water," said Ramadhar Das, a resident of Dhankaul in Sheohar district. Sources said at least 12 lakh people have been affected by the floods and inundation.

Chief Minister Nitish Kumar, who returned from Delhi a day ago, undertook an aerial survey of the areas inundated as a result of release of millions of cusecs of water, in a barrage along the border, by Nepal which was battered by record rainfall over the weekend.

The state disaster management department said packets of food and other relief materials were air-dropped by Indian Air Force helicopters which benefitted more than two lakh people in Sitamarhi and Darbhanga districts.

Deputy CM and BJP leader Samrat Choudhary, who met Union Jalshakti Minister C R Patil in Delhi a day ago, said he has urged the latter to consider construction of an additional barrage to check recurring floods that wreak devastation in areas bordering Nepal every year.

Union Minister Chirag Paswan, who hails from the state, visited the affected areas and said that he would share details of the "frightening" conditions with Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

Paswan, who heads the Lok Janshakti Party (Ram Vilas) and represents the Hajipur constituency, spent hours in badly affected districts such as Purnea and Saharsa.

For safe evacuation of people, altogether 16 teams of NDRF and 14 of the state disaster response force (SDRF) have been pressed into service.

IRAN WARNS ISRAEL AGAINST RETAILATION

Biden ordered the US military to aid the Jewish nation's defence and shoot down missiles

TEHRAN

IRAN's Revolutionary Guards threatened to carry out "crushing attacks" against arch-foe Israel if it retaliates for a missile attack by the Islamic republic on Tuesday.

"If the Zionist regime reacts to Iranian operations, it will face crushing attacks," the Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps (IRGC) said in a statement carried by the Fars news agency. The IRGC said the attack was "in accordance with the United Nations Charter".

It said it came "after a period of restraint" following an "attack on the sovereignty" of Iran – a reference to the killing of Hamas leader Ismail Haniyeh in Tehran in late July.

Late Tuesday, Iranian forces fired a barrage of missiles which targeted Israel's commercial hub Tel Aviv, state media reported.

The United States had earlier warned of an imminent Iranian ballistic missile attack on Israel, and said it would have "severe" consequences for Tehran. Iranian media carried online footage of what they said were missiles being fired at Israel.

State television played upbeat music over the footage as its newscaster spoke of "the brave Iranian people".

Tuesday's attack was Iran's second on Israel in the past six months, after a missile and drone attack in April in retaliation for a deadly Israeli air strike on Iran's consulate in Damascus. Nearly all of the missiles and drones fired in that attack were intercepted by Israel or its allies.

An Israeli strike on Beirut on Friday killed Hezbollah leader Hassan Nasrallah, whose Lebanese militant group has been armed and financed by Iran for years. Nasrallah was killed alongside General Abbas Nilforoushan, a top commander of the Quds Force, the IRGC's foreign operations arm.

Iran vowed that Nilforoushan's killing would "not go unanswered".

At last month's UN General Assembly in New York, President Masoud Pezeshkian accused Israel of warmongering as Iran exercised restraint.

He suggested Tehran had held back retaliation for Haniyeh's killing, fearing that it could derail US-backed efforts for a ceasefire in the Gaza war.

People take cover on the side of a road as a siren sounds a warning of incoming missiles fired from Iran on a freeway in Shoresh, between Jerusalem and Tel Aviv on Tuesday | AP

"We tried to not respond. They kept telling us we were within reach of peace, perhaps in a week or so," he said.

On Sunday, Pezeshkian said promises by the United States and its allies of a "ceasefire in exchange for Iran's non-reaction to Haniyeh's killing were completely false".

He added that "giving these criminals (Israel) a chance would only encourage them to commit more crimes".

Iran does not recognise Israel, and has made support for the Palestinian cause a centrepiece of its foreign policy since the Islamic Revolution in 1979.

Tehran hailed its ally Hamas's October 7 attack on Israel, which triggered the Gaza war, but denied any involvement. Regional tensions have soared since the outbreak of the Gaza war, drawing in Iran-aligned groups from Lebanon, Iraq, Syria, and Yemen.

Iran's Revolutionary Guards said its missile attack Tuesday on Israel targeted "three military bases" in the Tel Aviv area.

"We targeted three military bases around Tel Aviv", Israel's commercial hub, the Guards said in a statement carried by news agency ISNA.

Reports said between 150 and 200 missiles had been fired in the attack. President Joe Biden ordered the US military on Tuesday to "aid Israel's defense" and shoot down Iranian missiles targeting Israel, the White House said.

Biden and Vice President Kamala Harris, the Democratic nominee in next month's US presidential election, are both monitoring Iran's attack on Israel from the White House situation room, it said.

"President Biden directed the US military to aid Israel's defense against Iranian attacks and shoot down missiles that are targeting Israel," the White House said in a statement.

A call that Biden had scheduled with rabbis on Tuesday ahead of the Jewish high holiday season – which begins later this week with Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish new year – had been postponed to another day, a White House official said.

The United States and other western allies also stepped in to help defend Israel against a combined Iranian missile and drone attack in April, which Tehran launched in retaliation for an Israeli strike on the Iranian consulate in Damascus.

Hamas praised Iran's missile attack on Israel on Tuesday and said it was in revenge for the killings of Hamas leader Ismail Haniyeh and Hezbollah chief Hassan Nasrallah.

"The Islamic Resistance Movement (Hamas) blesses the heroic rocket launches carried out by the Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps in Iran against wide areas of our occupied lands," a statement said, adding it was "in revenge for the blood of our heroic martyrs".

Israeli airspace was reopened latr Tuesday, the country's airport authority said, after it was shut following a massive barrage of Iranian missiles. Take-offs and landings will return to order," authority said. AFP

Julian Assange says freedom of expression is at a crossroads

STRASBOURG

WIKILEAKS founder Julian Assange said on Tuesday he was released after years of incarceration only because he pleaded guilty to doing "journalism", warning that freedom of expression was now at a "dark crossroads".

"I am not free today because the system worked. I am free today after years of incarceration because I pleaded guilty to journalism," Assange told the Council of Europe rights body at its Strasbourg headquarters in his first comments since his release.

The Parliamentary Assembly of the Council of Europe (PACE) had issued a report expressing alarm at Assange's treatment, saying it had a "chilling effect on human rights".

He spent most of the last 14 years either holed up in the Ecuadoran embassy in London to avoid arrest, or locked up at Belmarsh Prison.

Assange was released under a plea bargain in June, after serving a sentence for publishing hundreds of thousands of confidential US government documents. The trove included searingly frank US State Department descriptions of foreign leaders, accounts of extrajudicial killings and intelligence gathering against allies.

Assange returned to Australia and since then had not publicly commented on his legal woes or his years behind bars.

Hard times ahead, warns Xi on 75th National Day

BEIJING

CHINA celebrated its 75th National Day on Tuesday, with President Xi Jinping issuing a stern warning that the road ahead for the Communist nation won't be smooth as it is weighed down by economic headwinds coupled with intensifying rivalry with the US and growing tensions with neighbours, including India. A large number of people attended the ceremonial flag hoisting at the sprawling Tiananmen Square in Beijing on Tuesday to celebrate the National Day as the country shut down for a week-long holiday.

Other than this, there were no festivities nor grand military parades displaying China's military might like in the 60th and 70th anniversaries of the National Day, but a rallying call from Xi asking people to prepare for hard times.

"The road ahead won't be smooth and flat, there will be difficulties and obstacles. [We] might face high winds and rough seas, even stormy seas," Xi said at a banquet on the eve of the anniversary as China tries to regain economic momentum amid an increasingly challenging set of geopolitical headwinds. PTI

Many school kids among 23 burnt to death in Thai bus

BANGKOK

A devastating fire on a Thai school bus killed at least 23 people, police said Tuesday after rescuers pulled children's bodies from the charred wreckage of the vehicle.

The inferno engulfed the coach on a highway in a northern Bangkok suburb as it carried 38 children – ranging from kindergarten age to young teenagers – and six teachers on a school trip.

It is believed to be the deadliest road accident in a decade in Thailand, which has one of the world's worst traffic safety records with around 20,000 fatalities a year.

"We found 23 bodies inside the bus," Trairong Phiwpan, head of the police forensic science office, told reporters.

The victims' bodies were so badly burned that Trairong said it was not yet possible to confirm how many were adults and how many children.

DNA testing would be needed to identify the remains, police said. Rescue workers put up screens around the wreckage to shield firefighters and investigators as they recovered bodies from the blackened shell of the bus. "Some of the bodies we rescued were very, very small. They must have been very young in age," Piyalak Thinkaew, who led the search, told reporters at the scene, adding that the fire started at the front of the bus.

"The kids' instinct was to escape to the back so the bodies were there," he said.

Police are hunting the coach driver after he fled the scene, acting national police chief Kitrat Phanphet told reporters.

"The driver is on the run, we will not wait for him to turn himself in – we will send a team to find him," Kitrat said.

Some of the children who survived suffered horrific burns to their faces, mouths and eyes, doctors treating them told local media.

The bus was one of three carrying children from on a field trip to a science museum in northern Bangkok.

The disaster is believed to have begun when one of the bus tyres burst on the highway around 12.30 pm, sending it crashing into a barrier and triggering the inferno, officials said. Video footage from the scene showed flames engulfing the bus as it burned under an overpass, huge clouds of dense black smoke billowing into the sky.

Ukrainians stop their vehicles and step out to hold a minute of silence to honour their troops on Tuesday | AFP

Russian attack kills six as Kyiv marks defenders day

KYIV

A Russian strike on a southern Ukraine market killed six people on Tuesday as the nation held a moment of silence to mark a major public holiday honouring troops, authorities said. Debris, broken glass and bodies were strewn around a market in Kherson city, which lies on the western bank of the Dnipro river, a de-facto front line between Russian forces in the east and Ukrainian forces in the west.

The regional prosecutor's office had reported seven killed, but later revised this to six, saying that doctors stabilised one of those presumed dead.

"Around 9 am on October 1, Russian forces struck the centre of Kherson, allegedly with cannon artillery. The shelling took place near a local market and a public transport stop," it said on Telegram. Moscow's troops withdrew from the capital Kherson in November 2022, retreating to the other side of the Dnipro, but they have kept up intense shelling of the city.

The deadly attack came as Ukraine held a minute of silence remembering the country's war dead on defenders day, the third since Russia invaded in 2022.

President Volodymyr Zelensky thanked the army in a speech to soldiers, acknowledging that his troops had suffered "painful moments" on what he said was a "difficult" path to victory.

"Inside we are all screaming with pain for each fallen hero, screaming with hatred for the evil that has come to our land," he said.

Neither Ukraine or Russia disclose how many of their soldiers have been killed. AFP

3 rockets fired at US troops near Baghdad intl airport

BAGHDAD

ROCKETS were fired at a base housing US-led coalition forces at Baghdad International Airport in Iraq on Tuesday, causing no casualties, the interior ministry and two security sources said. "The Victory Base at Baghdad Airport was targeted with three rockets, two of which were shot down by the base's special defences, while the third fell near the headquarters of the Counter Terrorism Service Command," a security source said.

A second security source said there were no casualties and that the incident had not affected air traffic.

The interior ministry later said "two Katyusha rockets fell, the first in the garage of the second regiment of the Counter-Terrorism Service and the other in an abandoned yard inside the airport".

It said an investigation has begun into the attack which comes as Israeli forces launched ground raids and air strikes on Lebanon, raising fears of a wider regional conflict amid the ongoing the war in Gaza.

Since war broke out in the Gaza Strip after Hamas attacked Israel on October 7, militant factions have targeted bases in Iraq and Syria that house US troops. AFP

Sebi puts curb on derivatives trade

Raises ticket size by 3x to ₹15 lakh; limits index futures expiry to weekly per exchange

BENN KOCHUVEEDAN @ Mumbai

MARKET watchdog Sebi on Tuesday announced a volley of measures to strengthen the index derivative framework by making it less lucrative for retail investors who have been heavily losing in this front, by raising minimum lot size or trading amount by three times and also reducing the number of expiries per exchange to weekly from every day now.

These measures will be effective November 20 and the regulator has asked each exchange to provide only derivatives contracts for one of its benchmark indices, and on a weekly expiry model. The Sebi in a circular issued a day after a board meeting, on Tuesday, said the minimum trading amount for derivatives will be ₹15 lakh, up from present ₹5-10 lakh, which will later be raise to ₹20 lakh.

"The lot size shall be fixed in such a manner that the contract value of derivatives on the day of review is within ₹15 lakh to ₹20 lakh," the circular said, adding the new norms for derivatives trading will be rolled out in phases, starting November 20. Index derivatives contracts with weekly expiries, increase in contract sizes and rise in tail risk coverage by levying additional ELM (extreme loss margin) will be launched from that day.

From February 1, 2025, there will upfront collection of options premium from buyers and removal of calendar spread treatment on expiry day, while from April 1, 2025, there will be intraday monitoring of position limits.

Last week, Sebi based on its own study said each retail investor who dabbled in derivatives trade lost on average ₹2 lakh between FY22 and FY24 and the system-wide loss during this period is ₹1.8 trillion. In January, the Sebi said its study had found the retail investors' F&O trade rose from 2% in FY18 to over 42% by FY23 and most of them lost money heavily. Following these findings, the Sebi had late June committed an internal working group to suggest measures to curb retail play in F&O market and the today's announcements are based on their suggestions only.

Ending daily expiries, the regulator said trading in index options on expiry day, when option premiums are low, is largely speculative. Stock exchanges offer contracts that expiry every day. The Sebi's consultation paper has noted hyperactive trading in index options on expiry day, with average position holding periods in minutes, followed by higher volatility through the day and at expiry.

"This has implications for investor protection and market stability, with no discernable benefit towards sustained capital formation," Sebi said, adding that exchanges have been mandated to have only one index derivative contracts per week.

Experts propose fewer TDS, TCS provisions, simpler tax law

MONIKA YADAV @ New Delhi

AHEAD of pre-budget consultations, experts suggest various changes in the Income Tax Act to make it simpler and minimize disputes. According to sources, a recent stakeholder consultation meeting chaired by Revenue Secretary Sanjay Malhotra brought together government officials and tax experts to discuss potential changes to the income tax law. Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman in Budget this year had announced the formation of a committee for review of the Income Tax Act.

One of the key changes tax experts suggest is the need to revamp the TDS (Tax Deducted at Source) and TCS (Tax Collected at Source) provisions.

According to Vivel Jalan, Partner at Tax Connect Advisory Services LLP, there are over 120 provisions related to TDS/TCS in the Income tax Act, and the complexity arising from these numerous provisions creates confusion and increases litigation.

He suggests a simplified rate structure similar to GST. He advises categorizing TDS rates into five distinct brackets—0.1%, 1%, 2%, 5%, and 10%. Amit Rana, tax partner, PwC India, highlights the need to prevent proliferating disputes between taxpayers and the tax department. He advocates establishment of a mediation or arbitration process, wherein an independent third party could objectively resolve disagreements. Rana bats for a robust advance ruling process that is both efficient and objective. To ensure impartiality, he suggests involving independent officers, such as retired judges, to issue rulings in a timely manner. "...to increase accountability of the tax department, the interest rate on refunds to taxpayers should be raised to 12%. This may put a check on any arbitrary action such as high-pitched assessment," Rana stated.

Another change proposed by experts relates to tax issues involving companies undergoing insolvency proceedings under the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code (IBC). The tax department continues to initiate tax proceedings for the pre-IBC period, despite clear provisions in the IBC and judicial rulings stating that no such actions should be undertaken. To rectify this situation, Sanjay Sanghvi, Partner at Khaitan & Co advocates introduction of specific provisions that would prohibit initiation of tax proceedings for the pre-IBC period.

Invesco raises IPO-bound Swiggy's valuation to $13.3 bn

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

US asset manager Invesco has raised food delivery and quick commerce platform Swiggy's valuation to about $13.3 billion. In its disclosure with the US SEC (Securities Exchange Commission), Invesco's Developing Markets Fund said it valued 28,844 shares at $237 million as of July 2024. Invesco holds a 2% stake in the company.

In 2022, Swiggy, which recently filed its IPO papers, raised $700 million in a funding led by Invesco, and it turned a decacorn as valuation crossed over $10.7 billion.

In April this year, Invesco valued Swiggy at about $12.3 billion. In June 2024, asset management firm Baron Capital marked up the valuation of the firm at about $15.1 billion from $12.1 billion in December 2023. The Bengaluru-based company is planning to raise ₹3,750 crore through a fresh issue of shares.

Swiggy's revenue from operation as of June 30, 2024 stood at ₹3,222.217 crore compared to ₹2,389.818 crore reported in the year-ago period.

Founded in 2014, Swiggy launched its quick commerce platform Instamart in August 2020. It operates in 43 cities delivering groceries and other essentials in 10-15 minutes.

Recently, the company said Swiggy Instamart plans to expand its service to more cities, deepening its presence in tier 2 and 3 markets. It also plans to expand its dark store network across existing and new cities.

Recently, UBS in a report estimated Swiggy's Instamart market share at 20-25%, behind Zomat0-owned Blinkit, which has a market share of 40-45%.

Swiggy plans to use over ₹559 crore of the net proceeds out of ₹982 crore towards investing in its material subsidiary, Scootsy, which will in turn be utilised for opening about 538 dark stores. It has also earmarked ₹929.50 crore for brand marketing and business promotion expenses for enhancing the brand awareness and visibility of its platform.

GST collection growth weakens further; Sept saw 6.5% growth

DIPAK MONDAL @ New Delhi

THE growth in monthly GST collections has further weakened as gross collection in September grew by only 6.5% as against 10% rise in the previous month.

The gross collections during the month was ₹1.73 lakh crore compared to ₹1.62 lakh crore in the same month the previous year. In July 2024, revenue had grwn by 10.3%. Year-to-date gross revenue have risen by 9.5% to ₹10.87 lakh crore. Fall in GST collection ahead of the meeting of Group of Ministers (GoM) on rate rationalisation on October 19-20 may influence the decisions of the GoM. As per Vivek Jalan, partner, Tax Connect Advisory Services LLP, with nominal GDP growth of 11% so far in FY25, GST growth at 9.1%, a tax buoyancy of less than 1 may concern the GST Council.

"Three GoMs are working simultaneously on real estate, rate rationalisation and insurance. With tax buoyancy moving southwards, it is expected that the next GST Council meet should see some far sighted measures on revenue enhancement," added Jalan. Net revenue growth nearly halved to 3.9% in September against 6.5% in August as refunds grew 31% in September. IGST refunds, accounted for 70% of refunds, grew 40% during the month.

"Major rise in GST refunds, especially IGST export refunds, depicts efforts of the tax authorities in expediting refunds and the policy makers in simplifying refund process," says MS Mani, Partner, Deloitte India. Most large states saw low single-digit growth with some even showing fall. Maharashtra and Tamil Nadu showed 5% growth in gross collection, Gujarat showed nil growth, Uttar Pradesh 3%, Rajasthan 2% and Karnataka saw 8% growth.

JAPAN

FACTORY ACTIVITY SUBDUED ON WEAK DEMAND

Factory activity in Japan was subdued in September as output and new orders fell due to a weak economy and lacklustre overseas demand, a private-sector survey showed on Tuesday. The final au Jibun Bank Japan manufacturing purchasing managers' index fell to 49.7 in September from 49.8 in August, but edged up from 49.6 reported in the flash reading. It remained just below the 50.0 threshold that separates growth from contraction for the third straight month. The subindex of output shrank slightly in September on a lack of new business. New orders shrank for the month, having stayed in contractionary territory since June 2023. Firms said a stagnant economy, inventory adjustments and labour shortages were the main factors for the weakness in new orders, the survey showed.

Mahindra closes in on Hyundai, eyes number two spot in PV sales

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

MAHINDRA & Mahindra (M&M) is eying number 2 spot in the Indian passenger vehicle (PV) market as its Sept 2024 domestic sales were just 39 units lower than Hyundai Motor India (HMIL). Last month, M&M dispatched 51,062 PVs (up 24% YoY) from its facilities to retail showrooms while HMIL dispatched 51,101 units (down 6% YoY).

The difference between the two carmakers was about 13,000 units a year ago in Sept 2023 as Hyundai had dispatched 54,241 cars and M&M's wholesales were at 41,267 units. Sept 2024 is the first month when M&M crossed 50,000 monthly wholesales milestone. M&M is the only player among top 4 carmakers to log growth as others saw a fall due to subdued demand in Shraddh period - Sept 17-Oct 2.

Tata Motors, which not long ago was giving a tough challenge to Hyundai for number 2 spot, reported a fall of 8% in Sept sales to 41,063 units. "No other carmaker is capitalising on the SUV wave as good as M&M. They have delivered one blockbuster product after another. We expect M&M to log similar growth in the coming months as well. While Hyundai is doing well to keep its dispatches above 50K mark, it is Tata Motors which is struggling at the moment," said a senior analyst who tracks automobile sector at a brokerage. Shailesh Chandra, MD, Tata Motors Passenger Vehicles, said Tata Motors posted wholesales of 130,753 units in the Q2FY25, a fall of 6% as against Q2FY24, as they readjusted wholesales to lower-than-expected retails, to keep channel inventory under control. Maruti Suzuki India reported wholesales of 144,962 units in September 2024, a fall of 3.9%.

Air India completes AI Express, AIX Connect merger

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

Low-cost fleet size to cross 100 planes by FY25-end

Tata group said the fleet size of its low-cost carrier is expected to cross 100 aircraft by the end of the current financial year, with a network footprint spanning across India, Gulf and Southeast Asia. The merger process for Air India Express was completed in less than a year since the airline's refreshed brand was unveiled

AIR India Group has completed the operational integration and legal merger of Air India Express Ltd and AIX Connect Pvt Ltd (erstwhile AirAsia India) into a larger low-cost carrier that takes on market leader IndiGo and smaller players such as Akasa Air and SpiceJet. The announcement comes as the group is in the final stages of merging its full-service carriers - Air India and Vistara.

Tata group said the fleet size of its low-cost carrier is expected to cross 100 aircraft by the end of the current financial year, with a network footprint spanning across India, Gulf and Southeast Asia.

The merger process for Air India Express was completed in less than a year since the airline's refreshed brand was unveiled. It involved the harmonisation of operational manuals, as an enabler for the merger, and the transfer of Air operator certificates (AOCs). On Tuesday, Vikram Dev Dutt, Director General, DGCA, handed over the updated AOC to Aloke Singh, Managing Director, Air India Express, in the presence of Campbell Wilson, Chief Executive Officer of Air India and Chairman, Air India Express, at the DGCA headquarter in New Delhi.

Wilson said, "The integration of AIX Connect with Air India Express is an important milestone in Air India's Vihaan.ai transformation journey. The merged entity will cater to the growing demand for air travel around India and in the region, especially among the country's aspirational youth looking for fresh and more appealing value products."

He added that this merger will be followed by the merger of Vistara into Air India on 12 November.

Air India Express has a fleet size of 88 aircraft at the moment, with nearly four new aircraft continuing to join each month. The number of routes AIX operates has risen from 74 to 171, and passenger carriage has increased by over 400% since the take-over of Air India by Tata Group in early 2022.

NDTV promoters' cheating case: CBI files closure report on lack of evidence

MUKESH RANJAN @ New Delhi

THE Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) has filed a closure report in an alleged cheating case involving former NDTV promoters and directors Prannoy Roy and Radhika Roy. As per officials, the sleuths could not find 'legally tenable evidence' in the ₹48 crore loss incurred by ICICI Bank in the settlement of a loan in 2009.

The CBI had filed an FIR in this case in 2017 on the basis of a complaint from an individual, Sanjay Dutt of Quantum Securities Ltd, who alleged RRPR Holdings, associated with the Roys, had taken ₹500 crore loan from IndiaBulls to acquire a 20% stake in NDTV via a public open offer. As per the FIR, RRPR Holdings also took a loan of ₹375 crore (with ₹350 cr disbursed) from ICICI Bank at an interest rate of 19% per annum to repay the loan from IndiaBulls.

The complaint had alleged the Roys pledged their entire shareholding as collateral for this loan, failing to report it to the Sebi, stock exchanges, or the I&B ministry.

In 2022, Adani Group acquired a controlling stake in NDTV, purchasing shares from the Roys. The officials said after over 7 years of probe, the CBI has now filed a closure report with a special court, which will determine whether to accept the report or instruct the agency to continue probe. Following searches on June 5, 2017 by the CBI, NDTV had said the loan of ₹375 crore from ICICI Bank, which it was accused of defaulting, had been repaid over 7 years ago.

Court will determine whether to accept report

The officials said after over 7 years of probe, the CBI has now filed a closure report with a special court, which will determine whether to accept the report or instruct the agency to continue probe.

Rohit & Co squeeze a win out of nowhere

Despite more than two days of play getting washed out, India clinch second Test vs B'desh to brighten their chances of making WTC final

FIROZ MIRZA @Kanpur

India all-rounder Ravindra Jadeja celebrates with his teammates on Day 5 of the Kanpur Test against Bangladesh | PTI

AS the proceedings began on Day 5 here at the Green Park Stadium on Tuesday, Kanpur, Rohit and Co executed a simple plan. Operate with a spinner from one end and a pacer from the other. R Ashwin started the bowling with Jasprit Bumrah following up in the next over. At stumps on the penultimate day of the second Test, visiting Bangladesh were 26/2 in 11 overs, still trailing by 26 runs, with Shadman Islam and Mominul Haque at the crease.

India went all out from ball one as the offie from Tamil Nadu came from around the wicket with two slips and a short leg in place. The next over, he removed the slip and deployed one at leg slip. It turned out to be a masterstroke as the previous innings centurion Mominul Haque was caught at the position by KL Rahul. In his unbeaten knock on Monday, Mominul had swept Indian spinners with great success but it eventually led to his downfall only a few hours later on the last day of the match. The ball pitched outside the leg with Mominul sweeping it only to find a thick upper edge. Rahul, who had dropped Shadman on Monday evening, didn't let it go this time as he completed a sharp catch. From thereon, skipper Najmul Hossain Shanto and Shadman played cautiously to make sure the team didn't lose any more wickets in the next 13 overs. They also stitched together a 55-run partnership giving visitors a hope for a draw. Despite the barren run, India skipper Rohit Sharma didn't change the strategy as he continued with the original plan of bowling with a spinner and a pacer from the two ends.

The only change he made was introducing Ravindra Jadeja from the pavilion end. Once again, the move paid dividends as Jadeja struck with his second ball. A quick and flat delivery, which Shanto looked to reverse sweep but failed miserably. The wicket triggered the collapse as pacer Akash Deep sent back the half-centurion Shadman the next over and Jadeja claimed two from his next two overs reducing Bangladesh to 94/7 in 31.2 overs. While wicketkeeper-batter Litton Das was undone with some turn and extra bounce, former skipper and star all-rounder Shakib Al Hasan, probably playing his last Test, spooned a simple return catch from a comparatively slower delivery which sort of stopped forcing the batter to check his shot. The two wickets meant Jadeja had claimed three wickets from his three overs giving away only three runs.

It was only in the 43rd over, 31 overs after the play resumed, Rohit changed the plan and made the tweakers bowl in tandem. Ashwin replaced Bumrah from the media box end with India needing just one wicket to wrap up the Bangladesh innings. But only three overs later, Rohit switched back to the original plan reintroducing Bumrah. The pacer didn't disappoint as he cleaned up experienced Mushfiqur Rahim. Bangladesh all out for 146 in 47 overs. Bumrah might have walked away with three wickets in the end but it's the duo of Ashwin and Jadeja, who had been instrumental in India's unbeaten run in the longest format on home soil since 2012, who did the deeds. Once again, they played their role to perfection in the ongoing series to keep the record intact. They accounted for 11 wickets in the first match which the hosts won by 280 runs in Chennai. The pair shone again with the ball to fetch the much-needed victory for their team as they claimed nine wickets in the match.

Needing 95 to win the series 2-0, India completed the formalities for the loss of just three wickets with opener Yashasvi Jaiswal slamming second consecutive half-century. The win brightens up India's chances of making it to the World Test Championship final for the third consecutive time. They are leading the WTC chart at the moment and now need to win three matches out of the remaining eight to enter the summit clash. Next up are New Zealand, who are touring India for the three-match series.

Skipper walked the talk with aggressive knock, says Ashwin

FIROZ MIRZA @Kanpur

AFTER bowling out Bangladesh in the first innings on Monday, skipper Rohit Sharma told teammates that they would bat aggressively in their first essay to force a result in the match. By then, more than two days of play had already been lost and a draw was looming large. The captain's peptalk, however, changed it all for India as they not only won the second Test at the Green Park Stadium in Kanpur but also set quite a few batting records in the longest format of the game. "Once we bowled them out for the first innings, Rohit was very clear that we needed to at least bowl 80 overs. Because I think we bowled them out for 70 overs or something in the first one," Ravinchandran Ashwin told journalists at the post-match press conference on Tuesday.

Elaborating it further, Ashwin said: "So having that surplus 10 overs was always going to help because they can defend and the pitch is pretty good. The moment he said that on the field, I thought maybe we will battle one hour after the start of play today. But when we gathered inside for a small talk, he did mention that we are going to go hammer and tongs. And then if in that bargain we are going to get bowled out for less than 200, it's still okay. Because we have made a game of it."

He was also all praise for the India skipper saying he left others with no choice than playing fearless cricket. "Saying that is one and obviously when he said that, we know how Yashasvi (Jaiswal) is going to play. But Rohit walked out and just tonked the first ball for a six. So when you walk the talk, I think obviously the dressing room doesn't have any other choice but to follow that same pattern. And we have 50 runs from 3 overs... there was no looking back up."

The match might be remembered for the approach adopted by the Indian batters but their bowlers played their role to perfection to make that win possible. Ashwin agreed. "When Rohit says that you make 400, try and make a game out of it, it tells you that the captain believes the bowlers will get the job done. And they have the ability to pick 20 wickets. So, having that as one, you will encounter situations where batters do dominate against our bowling attack as well. It is only given in this game. But the bowling attack is quite special. And I really do hope that this legacy of bowling is taken forward."

GREEN PARK HAS STAY OF EXECUTION

FIROZ MIRZA @Kanpur

THE Green Park Stadium in Kanpur drew a lot of flak ever since the second Test between India and Bangladesh began on Friday. But as the saying goes, all's well that ends well. A win for India following an exciting two-and-a-half-day's of play meant the dejection and anger gave way to jubilation and ecstasy.

The complexion of the match changed on the fourth day when the hosts played aggressively to force a result. Their bowlers didn't lag behind as they wrapped up Bangladesh's second innings quickly on Tuesday to give the batters enough time to chase down a small target of 95. It was a moment to cherish for around 20,000 fans who turned up on the last day to witness their team converting a dull draw into a memorable win.

Among those present on the occasion, pitch curator Shiv Kumar was the most relieved man. In the eye of the storm for the first three days, Kumar said the result is a kind of redemption for him. "I have told everyone from the beginning that the surface will offer something to everyone. Now you can see why I was saying that. Both pacers and spinners got the wickets.

The strip had enough bounce in the beginning and started turning in the later stages. The way India played their first innings is also a testament of how the ball was coming nicely on to the bat, Mominul (Haque) scored a century as well. Heavy rains disrupted our plans but we worked on a war footing to make the last two days of play possible," Kumar said.

Ravichandran Ashwin, who was adjudged Player of the Series, was questioned what he prefers; permanent Test centres or matches in all centres. "Firstly, what are the benefits that Indian cricketers attain by having so many Test centres? You have got cricketers who come and play Test cricket from every nook and corner of this country. It is a huge country and it has triggered that sort of urgency and that sort of passion amongst cricketers to be able to come and play for this country. That is a big positive," he explained.

The offie also spoke on the other aspects of allotting Tests to smaller centres. "The second of it is there are certain requisite ingredients that goes into making a Test match happen. Like for the weather and the kind of drainage that we need to be able to invest in. These are no-brainers. But having said all this, does it help a player if you have just a few Test centres? Most certainly it does."

This is an old ground which is among the five permanent Test centres in the country. This is the first time in 80 years that we could not host any play for two days. As history suggests, no match has been abandoned here. It's just that due to so much rain, there was a bit of dampness.

BATTLE OF THE BEST

A red-hot Bayern visit Aston Villa while holders, Real Madrid, travel to Lille. A look at some intriguing Champions League fixtures...

Aston Villa vs Bayern

Aston Villa's first home match in European club football's biggest competition couldn't be any tastier; a visit of genuine royalty in the form of Bayern. While Villa have had a slightly up and down start to the season, they began their European sojourn with a confident 3-0 win. Bayern, under Vincent Kompany, though will be a different beast. The Germans scored nine goals in matchday one and have been in rollicking form thanks to the likes of Jamal Musiala.

Lille vs Real

Kylian Mbappe returns to France for a club fixture for the first time since the summer move. Back from an injury, he will be expected to share the goalscoring burden. While Madrid have started the season without a loss, there remains room for improvement. Lille do have issues as they have won only one of their last five ties in all competitions.

WEDNESDAY'S FIXTURES: Shakhtar Donetsk vs Atalanta, Girona vs Feyenoord (both at 10.15 PM), Benfica vs Atletico, Liverpool vs Bologna, RB Leipzig vs Juventus, Lille vs Real Madrid, Sturm Graz vs Club Brugge, Aston Villa vs Bayern, Dinamo Zagreb vs Monaco (all at 12.30 AM on Thursday). Live on Sony Sports Network

Premala 'Kaki', the rock behind pioneers of women's game

KALYANI MANAGLE @Chennai

THE ninth edition of the Women's T20 World Cup is only 24 hours away. A cricket bonanza where multiple matches will be played under lights, where every play will be analysed, every moment will be captured by a multi-camera setup. Social media will get involved and the extraordinary athleticism of the elite cricketers will undoubtedly get viral. That is how far the women's game has come now.

However, this was not always the reality for women's cricket anywhere in the world. Certainly not in India. And that is where the pioneers of the women's game and those who stood behind the players become an integral part of this story. "The attitude of society towards women's cricket was not that positive when we started. There were so many doubts about our abilities," Ujjwala Nikam-Pawar, one of the first ladies of women's cricket in India, told this daily. "We started at the Engineering College ground in Pune. Our then-MP Sambhajirao Kakade and his wife, Kanthavati, inaugurated the training facility. Mrs. Kakade even went to the homes of some of the players who were not allowed to play cricket by their families and convinced their parents to send their daughters for practice. In those early days, she also worked as our manager," Nikam-Pawar remembers.

ICC WOMEN'S T20 WORLD CUP
1 DAY TO GO

The systemic change happened when Premala Chavan, or Kaki as she was affectionately known, was approached by Narendra Nikam to be the president of the Maharashtra Ladies Cricket Association. "When Narendra Nikam and everyone else came up with the idea, they proposed that my mother should be the president of the organisation because she was a Member of the Parliament at that time," Prithviraj Chavan, son of Premala Chavan and current Member of Maharashtra Legislative Assembly told this daily. "At that time, women's cricket was such a new topic that people would not believe it if we told the details. The players did not have money to travel, she would give them money for that. Whenever they used to come to Delhi, they used to stay at our home and even have meals there. Diana Edulji, Chandrika Kenia, and Shubhangi Kulkarni have stayed at our home," he added.

For someone who grew up around cricket in Indore, it was natural for her to form a love for the game. "She was always surrounded by cricket. Her sister's husband, Captain BB Nimbalkar (Bhausaheb Babasaheb). He represented Maharashtra in Ranji Trophy and ws remembered for his innings of 443 not out in the 1948–49 Ranji Trophy match between Maharashtra and Kathiawar. Her elder brother was MM Jagdale from Indore. Jagdale family was into cricket with Holkars from the beginning. He was a key Holkar Cricket team member, including legends like CK Nayudu and Mushtaq Ali. Later he became the national selector. Both his sons, Sanjay and Ashok, also played. The family was always surrounded by cricket. So when the opportunity came to contribute something to women's cricket, she immediately took it. We didn't take it seriously at that time, but my mother persisted. She used to say, we must give opportunities to the players. And she believed in that. She played the role of anchor in those times," the former Chief Minister of Maharashtra revealed.

Quality of players in GCL is very high: Srinath

ASHOK VENUGOPAL @Chennai

THE UMumba Masters is geared up for Season 2 of the Global Chess League (GCL). The team is coached by Grandmaster Srinath N, who was the captain of the Indian men's team that captured gold at the Chess Olympiad.

The franchise has a good mixture of experience and youth with players like Maxime Vachier-Lagrave, Vidit Gujrathi, Alexander Grischuk, Koneru Humpy, Dronavalli Harika and Raunak Sadhwani in their ranks. Srinath believes that his team, who were finalists in the last edition, has the potential to have a crack at the crown. In a chat with this daily, Srinath spoke about the quality of the league, his coaching mantra and more. Excerpts...

- On the quality and format of the Global Chess League

The quality of players is immensely high. Pretty much everyone participating in GCL is a strong Grandmaster. It is definitely a great initiative and I hope that it turns out to be a great success.

- On Indian gold medallists (Chess Olympiad) and their rise in popularity

They are popular and exciting players and they'll be followed keenly wherever they go. It is a big boost for Indian chess.

- On UMumba Masters

UMumba Masters is a strong team, but so are every other team. We had good team spirit last edition and we have retained most of the players.

- On key players for UMumba

I wouldn't pick any particular player as such as everyone in the team is a seasoned Grandmaster and a champion in their own right.

- On his approach for guiding a league team

The first thing is I try and bring all the players together and align them to one common objective as they are all very different people in different age groups and different nationalities. It's important to have a good bonding.

- On difference between coaching a national team and a league side

The national team consists of players from one country, so there isn't much cultural difference. The players have also played together for several years already. In a league side, we usually have players from different nationalities, so in that sense, it's more challenging.

WALKING WITH THE HARAPPANS

The Indus Valley Civilisation was officially discovered a hundred years ago, a landmark phase in world archaeology and Indology. The indelible contributions of the Harappan people in shaping the subcontinent make for relevant study even today

HRITHIK KIRAN BAGADE

THERE was a burst of archaeological interest in the Indian land throughout the 19th century, and spanning across the early decades of the 20th. For years during this period, locals around modern-day Northwest India and Northeast Pakistan would regularly chance upon intricate ornaments, pottery fragments, and beads, sticking out of the soil, while grazing cattle or simply exploring the rivers of the region. Little did they know, buried underneath was a glorious chapter of the Indian subcontinent's ancient past.

The unearthing of these primordial relics attracted the attention of a host of archaeologists, who began visiting the area around 1920. In 1921, markings of a civilisation were revealed, when the ancient settlement of Harappa was discovered in Punjab, modern-day Pakistan. This spurred a greater search for more ancient human activity in the region. When explorers spotted a large mound of earth near River Indus in Sindh, in 1920, they were quick to analyse that concealed within was a very old remnant of India's history, way older than the known histories of kings and empires. By 1922, this mound was excavated, and Mohenjo-Daro, the crown jewel of the Indus Valley Civilisation, as we know it today, was revealed. On September 20, 1924, Sir John Marshall, the then director-general of the Archaeological Survey of India, published a piece titled, 'A Forgotten Age Revealed', in the weekly The Illustrated London News, where the discovery was compared to the work of Heinrich Schliemann at Tiryns and Mycenae. However, the Indus discovery would predate these two Greek eras by a few centuries at least. Thus, it was in the September of 1924, when the discovery of the Indus Valley Civilisation was proclaimed to the world for the first time, and 2024 marks the centenary of this epoch-making find.

The Indus Valley Civilisation, also called the Harappan Civilisation, is thought to have been a Bronze Age civilisation, which spanned the aforesaid reaches of modern-day India and Pakistan, largely around 3300-1300 BCE, reaching its zenith during 2600-1900 BCE, when its vestiges were found as far apart as Sutkagen Dor in southwestern Balochistan, near the Arabian Sea; and at Ropar, eastern Punjab, India, at the foot of the Shimla hills. Later exploration established its existence southward down the west coast of India, as far as the Gulf of Cambay, and as far east as the Yamuna River Basin. It is thus decidedly the most extensive of the world's three earliest civilisations, though Mesopotamia and Egypt sprouted somewhat earlier.

Course of the river

The Oxford Dictionary defines a civilisation as "the stage of human social and cultural development and organisation that is considered most advanced". Like all great civilisations of their period, the Harappans established a common set of values, a way of life, culture, and an advanced system of governance and social structure, which planted the seeds of civilisation. Historically, civilisation blossomed on the banks of great rivers, which proved to be their lifelines and great cultural and economic symbols. While Egypt developed along the Nile, Mesopotamia amidst the Euphrates and Tigris, and even China along the Yangtze, the Indus or the Sindhu River system, along with its numerous tributaries, and the now intermittent Ghaggar-Hakra River (which many historians theorise to be the Rigvedic River Saraswati), in India and Pakistan, was the cradle of the Indus Valley Civilisation.

The Indus Valley Civilisation, which began as a collection of settlements, hosted several big cities, including Harappa and Mohenjo-Daro, and more than 100 towns and villages. The two cities were each perhaps originally about 1.6-km square in overall dimensions, and their outstanding magnitude suggests political centralisation, either in two large states or in a single great empire with alternative capitals. The population was estimated to be 23,500-35,000 in Harappa, and 35,000-41,250 in Mohenjo-Daro, while some theories have even capped the latter's population at 100,000 at its peak. All these centres of human activity had been integrated into a single web of socio-economic relations, which was coined as the Indus Valley Civilisation.

For the people

Unlike its Egyptian, Mesopotamian and Chinese counterparts, the Harappan Civilisation is believed to have enjoyed a different sort of governance structure, which put each citizen at the centre of policymaking. The social life in the Indus Valley was systematic and rich, and its people were peace-loving and law-abiding. There were strong family ties among the people. Its social life, economic planning, and polity can best be observed in its cities.

Unlike the Egyptians who built pyramids, and the Mesopotamians ziggurats, no such lofty architectural projects were undertaken by the Harappans. Many theories suggest the absence of a king or central ruling figure for this. The pyramids were built as the final resting place of a god-like pharaoh, while the ziggurats were great temples dedicated by kings to presiding deities. While not much direct evidence is available to depict the power corridors of Harappan society, archaeological records hint at some degree of uniformity in the administration, governing a society which was largely egalitarian, the first of its kind in human history. The Harappans allocated much of their wealth for the common good, and there's no evidence of royalty, aristocratic burials, or a warrior class.

Mohenjo-Daro was a walled city on the banks of the Indus. It had well-planned urban spaces, with equal access to all parts of the settlements. Years of rebuilding and the construction of large mudbrick platforms resulted in some areas being higher than the others, and thus well-protected from periodic flooding and polluted waters. Double-laned streets, allowing movement of oxcarts, were laid out in neat patterns, while all residents lived in well-planned brick houses, with toilets and bathing facilities, based on their occupation and economic standing. The Harappans had sophisticated drainage systems that carried sewage away from habitation, while an equally remarkable water supply system separately provided each household with potable water.

The Great Bath of Mohenjo-Daro is another example of community being the core of Harappan society. One prevalent theory suggests that the Great Bath held religious significance and might have been used for purification rituals, ablutions, or as a sacred bathing space for ceremonies. Similarly, the Great Granary is the largest structure discovered on site.

The civilisation also emphasised trade and commerce, driven by agriculture and fishing. The Harappans exported muslin, wheat, terracotta-ware, ivory, and shell jewellery, while importing metals, gems, and frankincense from regions as far as Mesopotamia. They carried out trade via land and sea, from the dockyard at Lothal, Gujarat. Also, relics of Harappan culture have been unearthed in countries surrounding the Persian Gulf, suggesting economic ties of antiquity. It also depicts a deep knowledge of navigation. The Indus people were technologically-skilled. Significant advancements in transportation technology, including bullock carts, boats, and sailing ships, were made. The civilisation also used a state-of-the-art canal system, which served both agriculture and transportation. Harappans invented new metallurgical processes, to develop copper, bronze, lead, and tin articles.

The people had also developed a high degree of precision in measuring length, mass, and time, and were among the first to establish an equitable weights and measures system. Harappan engineers divided measurements into decimal fractions for all practical reasons, including mass measurement using hexahedron weights. Several such weights have been found during excavations.

It's in the clay

In 1926, archaeologist Ernest Mackay discovered the 'Dancing Girl' at Mohenjo-Daro. The bronze figurine is the most iconic artefact of the Indus Valley Civilisation. Around the same time, the 'Priest-King', a small male figure sculpted in steatite, was also found at Mohenjo-Daro.

However, the popular art of the Harappans are in the form of terracotta figurines. The majority are of standing females, often heavily laden with jewellery, but standing males — some with beards and horns — are also present. It has been generally agreed that these figures are largely deities, but some small figures of mothers with children or of domestic activities are probably toys. There are varieties of terracotta toys, such as monkeys pierced to climb a string and cattle that nod their heads. There are also toy whistles that still work. Painted pottery is the only evidence of a tradition of painting.

Another striking find is a plethora of small clay stamp seals, which have pictures of bulls, fantastic creatures, and other local fauna etched on them. Stamp seals were used as marks of ownership and badges of status. These seals, though smaller than a palm, display the eye for detail only possible by a very advanced people, further supported by a uniformity in pottery designs, standardised ratio of brick sizes, and homogeneity in weights and measures. Hence, while other civilisations were growing militarily and imperially, the Harappans thrived as a modern, economic powerhouse, putting the citizen at the centre of it all.

Decline or a new future?

Around 1800 BCE, the Indus Valley Civilisation began to decline. Archaeological evidence indicates that trade with Mesopotamia seemed to have ended, following centuries of drought there. Mohenjo-Daro, Harappa, Lothal, and Dholavira, among other great cities, were overburdened, with their advanced drainage systems and baths falling apart. Mohenjo-Daro could not sustain itself against the imminent threat of frequent flooding by the great river that once shaped its destiny. For centuries prior to this era, people had already begun migrating eastward to the Himalayan foothills, where they settled in small farming villages, around the Indo-Gangetic Plain. The civilisation eventually came to an end.

Today, the Harappan Civilisation is not just a stuff of awe and reverence for those who call the subcontinent home, but a time capsule which still holds a vast trove of historical resources about us and our antiquated land. The only issue is that though there is an Indus language and writing system, it still remains undeciphered since the texts are too short and there is no bilingual inscription, unlike hieroglyphics and cuneiform, of Egypt and Mesopotamia, respectively. Only time has the answers!

OF PANDALS & PUJOS IN BENGAL-URU

DESE GOWDA

DURGA Puja, celebrating Hindu Goddess Durga's victory over Mahishasura, is, for millions, more than a religious festival – it's a celebration of unity, creativity, and joy. With Dasara fast approaching, Bengaluru's vibrant and growing Bengali communities are preparing grand festivities for their most significant event of the year, inviting people from all walks of life to join in the spirit of celebration.

A MAJESTIC HOMAGE

The Bengali Association for the Residents of Sarjapur and HSR-layout Area (BARSHA) is all set to unveil a grand tribute to India's cultural heritage this year by recreating Kolkata's iconic Victoria Memorial. The structure, spanning 80 feet in width and 40 feet in height, has been crafted with the help of skilled artisans from across Karnataka. Priyanka Sinha Roy, joint secretary of BARSHA, explains, "The idea is to pay tribute to India's rich and complex history." She adds that the memorial will be illuminated with different colours each evening to emphasise its marble-like structure. In addition to the grand display, BARSHA will host an open-to-all Dhunuchi dance. "Around 200 participants are expected, and four expert dancers from West Bengal will be leading the performances," says Sinha Roy. Borsha's festivities will also feature performances by various artistes, over 30 food stalls, boutique vendors from across the country, and a book fair dedicated to Bengali literature.

A FUSION OF TRADITION AND MODERNITY

Bengali in Bangalore (BinB) will host its 14th Durga Puja at Kalyani Kalamandir, Bannerghatta Road, from October 9 to 13, offering a mix of traditional rituals and modern performances. Known for its community-driven spirit and inclusivity, the event serves prasad daily to 700-1,000 attendees. "We follow traditional rituals observed by Belur Math, with accessible Anjali timings," explains Soumyadeep Paul, general secretary, BinB. A highlight will be the Navami special on October 12, featuring Kolkata folk band Tirtha & Satirtha. Daily puja starts with Maha Sasthi on October 9, followed by Dandiya Nights from October 9 to 12, offering a blend of Bengali and Gujarati cultures. Cultural programmes will feature artistes from Kolkata, including Rahul Datta and Trissha Chatterjee, and more. The traditional Dhunuchi Naach on Ashtami will add to the authentic Bengali traditions.

RECREATING KRISHNANAGAR RAJBARI

Bongodhara Sarbojonin Durga Pujo, one of North Bengaluru's largest, will mark its sixth year at the White Pearl Convention Centre on Thanisandra Road, recreating the Krishnanagar Rajbari, a historic Bengali palace. The organisers, working with renowned curators, aim to bring Bengal's royal heritage to life. "This year, we're inspired by the legacy of Krishnanagar Rajbari. Through this celebration, we hope to ignite curiosity about Bengal's rich history," says Aparajita Ray, one of the organisers. Artist Shankar Pal from Kumartuli is crafting the Durga idol, reflecting the palindrome structure first designed in 1981 for the Krishnanagar Rajbari. The idol, featuring Maa Durga seated on her lion with her four children and Mahishasura in a symmetrical format, will showcase detailed clay modelling of their attire. The celebrations will also feature performances by Suraj Mani, poet Meghna Bhattacharya, and folk band Achin Pakhi. Highlights include a food fiesta, daily puja, and free bhog on Ashtami (October 11), a Dandiya Night and Dhunuchi Dance.

A TRIBUTE TO BISHNUPUR'S TEMPLES

In Whitefield, the Prestige Shantiniketan Durga Puja, from October 8 to 13, will focus on Bengal's flavour and the Bishnupur temple architecture. The idea is to evoke the historical and spiritual essence of these temples through the pandal design. "The event will blend Bengal's cultural heritage with a focus on Bishnupur's temples," shares Riddhi Dutta from the cultural team. Highlights include the Agomoni dance on October 9, a tribute to Navadurga, and a performance by Sa Re Ga Ma Pa 2022 winner Neelanjana Ray on October 11. October 12 promises excitement with Ravana Dahan, a Bollywood-inspired Dramebaaz show, and a Ramayana reenactment. The celebrations will culminate with the traditional Sindoor Khela, symbolising unity.

A REGAL TRIBUTE TO BENGAL'S PALACES

At the Hindu Sadara Kshemabhivrudhi Sangha, Chord Road, the North Bangalore Cultural Samithi (NBCS) will celebrate its 47th Durga Puja from October 9 to 13, with the theme Laal Sonar Mahal, inspired by Bengal's golden-red palaces. Expecting over 20,000 visitors, the event will feature the grand unveiling of the Durga idol, crafted by renowned artist Tarun Pal, alongside a sound and light show on October 9. "This year's theme celebrates Bengal's rich heritage. We're particularly excited about the intricacy of the idol," shares Kalyan Pathak, a representative of NBCS. Cultural performances, including Tagore's Chandalika and Chitrangada, and a Dhunuchi Naach competition will take place. The festivities will also feature marketplaces offering Bengali ethnic wear, silk sarees, and a range of cuisines, ensuring a vibrant cultural experience.

'Inconsistent. That's who I am!'

In a candid conversation with CE, singer Shilpa Rao, who will be performing in B'luru soon, discusses all things music

RESHMI CHAKRAVORTY

IF you are grooving to Mere Mehboob and Chuttamalle and earlier sang your heart out to Tumhare Hi Rahenge Hum, Chaleya, Besharam Rang or Ghungroo, then you are listening to ace singer Shilpa Rao. She has carved a special place for herself in the Indian music industry, delivering hits across genres. Over the years, she has broken the mould, blending traditional Indian music with contemporary styles and making her presence felt in both commercial cinema and indie projects. At the audio launch of Devara starring Jr NTR, Janhvi Kapoor and Saif Ali Khan, Rao sits down to chat with CE. Excerpts:

■ Tell us about your collaboration with Anirudh for Devara.

It's always a great collaboration with Anirudh. It's been like a jam more than anything else. He's quick and decisive. I like that about being a musician and it's easy to feed off each other's energy. This song has been such a great ride. It is not a love song or a dance song but hits a very sweet spot between nice, romantic, slow dance music.

■ Who is Shilpa Rao away from the limelight?

If you leave me, I would be happily climbing trees and sitting on one of the branches, it's a very peaceful thing to do. I love to travel and read books. I travel for food especially.

■ What inspired you to be a singer?

My family wanted me to be a singer. I didn't have many aspirations growing up. I am like someone who doesn't have a plan.

■ You have been in the music industry for many years now. How has your journey been?

In a nutshell, meeting great people, working with them, learning so much with them, learning so much from them and of course, eating good food.

■ If you had to describe yourself in three words, what would that be?

Inconsistent, inconsistent, inconsistent. That's who I am!

■ You have collaborated with so many artistes. Do you have any bucket list of artists you haven't worked with yet?

Many actually. I want to work with Sting, The Weeknd and Shoshinsha.

■ What's the initial thing that attracts you while choosing a song?

Subtlety is one thing which I like. Be it a dance song, be it a love song, be it something which is more intrusive – you need to have subtlety. It shouldn't seem like you're trying too hard to achieve that expression.

■ You have performed live in so many places. Do you change your singing when performing live?

Yes. We try to adapt it to the stage and make it more people-friendly because it's not just about expressing yourself. It is aabout bouncing off the energy of the audience.

■ You have sung in so many languages. How do you pick up the nuances in the languages?

It helps to hear music from that language. It's not just so much the phonetics or the pronunciation, it's also the emotion that comes through it.

■ Does social media help you reach more audience through reels or does it restrict you to a trend?

It's a very nuanced situation. The song that you're making, recording or singing can't be made in a way that it will trend. That can't be the purpose of creating it because it stops you from expressing limitlessly. For me, having fun at the studio is important. I really make that day count. Frankly speaking, after we complete the song, it's not ours, it's yours whether you like it or not. If you enjoy yourself, I think then the audience will also enjoy it.

■ Do you have any tips for people who want to take up singing professionally?

Learn music. We always want educated people running the country. But we don't have educated musicians doing music. That's a very big vacuum. There are small things you can do which can really enhance the song and that can only come when you learn and keep learning all through your life. Definitely listen to a lot of different music because music is changing. Also have an open mind to failures. Failures are not bad.

How to break into modelling

Starting a career in modelling involves a lot of hardwork, persistence and networking. Here's how I got started:

Find your launchpad: Beauty pageants served as mine. They helped me gain confidence, refine my stage presence and build a portfolio. Find pageants near you. Participating in these competitions can open doors and give you the much-needed exposure.

Freelance or agency work? I never signed up with any agency. Instead, I chose to freelance and found work by directly contacting casting directors and agencies. I send my portfolio to at least 10 people daily. That said, signing with an agency can also be a great option as they already have established networks in the industry.

Get out of your comfort zone: Real magic happens in the big world, not inside your bubble. I put myself out there. I travelled for auditions, went to casting calls, etc. Each of such experiences increased my visibility. Also, be proactive.

ASK AN XPERT

Capitalise on your breakthroughs: My breakthrough came when I landed a commercial with cricketer Ishan Kishan for Reliance Campa Cricket, which was aired during the World Cup. With this, I was able to land additional opportunities. They helped build my portfolio and gain recognition.

Keep at it: Success in this field does not happen overnight. My journey required consistency and perseverance. Keep pushing forward. Even when it feels tough. Your dedication will eventually pay off.

SILENT REFLECTIONS BY THE SHORE

Artist Rijaz Sanooja Rasheed from Thiruvananthapuram potrays an everyday moment in the life of a fisherman.

'MY BIGGEST REGRET'

Romance writer Durjoy Datta explores the complicated relationship between childhood friends turned enemies as they navigate love, betrayal, and emotional turmoil

I turn back and walk towards the reception.

That's when I see her.

Aanchal Madan.

For a moment, I think I have imagined her. I hope that I have imagined her. But there she is.

Aanchal Madan.

In flesh and blood. All of her.

Aanchal * Madan.

A wave of hatred crashes upon me.

My biggest regret.

Aanchal Madan.

The World's Worst Girlfriend.

I am consumed by how much I despise her.

Aanchal Madan.

It engulfs me entirely. I thought I had gotten over the hurt, but my revulsion towards her overwhelms me.

Aanchal Madan.

My body sears with the heat of my loathing, it burns.

Aanchal Madan.

My first instinct is to turn away, to avoid her presence altogether, just pretend I never saw her and walk past like she doesn't exist.

But I feel compelled to confront her, to release the pent-up fury that I didn't know still existed in me, a fury that now threatens to tear me apart. I want to leave, forget this moment, but I also want to remind her of the pain she left behind, the pain I can still feel so viscerally. I want to go home to the world I built without her, but I also want to grab her and demand answers. I want to never see her again, burn off her name from my memory, but I also want to know if she regrets what she did. I want to know if the shattering of my heart was simply another task on her endless to-do list.

The receptionist is showing her the suitcases. She spots me as she's talking to Aanchal.

'There he is!' the receptionist points towards me. And then addresses me excitedly. 'The suitcases are for her and her brother! She called reception to ask about them and came down, and good thing I found you!'

Yeah, you * did.

Aanchal turns to look at me.

The correct course of action would be to walk towards her, point at the suitcases, nod and then walk away from her pretending as if the weight of our history isn't suddenly weighing down on my back and breaking it.

I should remind myself that she's now a rotten, forgettable part of my life I have buried and gotten over. It's taken a part of my soul and then some to heal myself from Aanchal's rejection. If I love myself even a little, I should walk away from her. If I don't want to spend one more minute trying to figure out what I did wrong and what I didn't have, I should run away from her. I should walk away from her, get into the taxi whose meter is still on, fly back to Amruta and complain about her mathematics teaching skills.

But my feet take me to Aanchal.

'I have your baggage,' I snarl. My entire body burns with anger. 'Take it.'

I finally muster some control and turn away from her. I walk away from her: from all the hurt and rage I brought upon myself by falling in love with her. I hear her jog behind me. I want to stop her. Ask her to go back to her life. A life I have made painstaking efforts to stay away from. I don't want to hear her, I don't want to look at her, I don't want to breathe in the same air as her. I don't want to let her pick at the scab left by the wound she caused.

'Daksh?'

I don't answer.

'Daksh?'

My strides get longer, my jaw clenches, and I try to put as much distance between us as possible.

'It's not a race,' she tells me.

That's when I snap. Something breaks in me.

Demons to vanquish this Dasara

HRIDAY RANJAN
Urban Bourbon
(Writer, comedian)

BY the time you read this column, the hustle-bustle of Dasara celebrations would have begun around you. Whether you believe in God or not, there's no denying that the beginning of the Navaratri celebrations brings with it colours, cheers, and sweets. And even Richard Dawkins would have had a ball if he found himself on the streets of Kolkata during Pujo celebrations. I have always loved Indian festivals, and how they mark a shift in the year. Navaratri celebrations mark the beginning of festivals and holidays that culminate with the end of the year.

My school gave us winter holidays during the 10 days, so there was a personal reason to look forward to Dasara celebrations. While festivals like Holi and Deepavali are celebrated similarly across the country, Dasara brings out the culture in every state. Like the statues of the goddess in West Bengal. Or the annual resurgence of Falguni Pathak for Garba nights in Gujarat. Or the Ram Leela in Delhi – the only public theatre performance that is not limited to bindi-wearing elites of our country. Or the Mysore Dasara – where the entire city comes together to blur social and economic differences. In my home state of Odisha, we marked the day with 'Ravan Podi' - where an effigy of Ravana would be set on fire (mostly by a politician whose corruption would put the King of Lanka himself to shame!).

Navaratri has always symbolised the killing of demons. But here are some demons you should aim to vanquish this Dasara. Some of them are age-old demons, while others have risen in prominence after the advent of social media. In mythological stories, demons were evil creatures who ruled their own kingdoms. But today, these monsters exist within us, disguised as modern problems.

Like Ravana, we have 10 heads within us - overthinking every single step. While Ravana's 10 heads were symbolic of the wisdom of 10 men, our imaginary 10 heads keep pondering about reactions from our friends, bosses, and strangers on the internet. There is also Mahishasura inside us - the demon who could transform into anything he wanted. It is not very different from procrastination, where I switch from one task to another, while completely avoiding the most important work in front of me. Gotta send in a column? Watch the Mahishasura in me watch a podcast while secretly hoping for a time machine to finish the deadline.

Then there's Hiranyakashipu – the 'nothing can kill me' dude. That's us on weekends, partying like the concept of hangovers is mere mythological fiction. We dance and scream our voices hoarse, only to engage in two days of hangover tapasya to atone for our sins. There is also a Bakasura inside us, as we spend our nights scrolling on our phones. Just as the gluttonous Bakasura ate everything that came his way, I find myself scrolling endlessly, till I come across a reel with three likes and zero comments, indicating that even Zuckerberg has run out of dopamine shots for me. And finally, thanks to the active involvement of all the above asuras, I wake up like Kumbhakarna every morning. Kumbhakarna used to wake up after months, eat an entire Udipi hotel's worth of food, and go back to sleep. I hit the snooze button innumerable times, wake up to eat anything around me, and walk back to the bed wondering where all the hours went!

Gods took human forms to vanquish the vintage asuras. But with these demons, you must transform into a god and take matters into your own hands. As the 10-day festival approaches, dear reader, I hope you are able to vanquish these demons that are feasting within all of us!

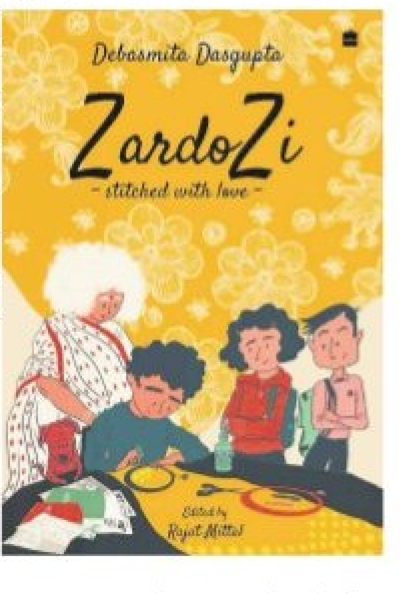
Sewing a gender-free world

In her latest book, writer Debasmita Dasgupta brings forth a space for taking discussions beyond gender norms



ANUSREE PV

I want my child to be an architect. I want my child to be a surgeon. I want my child to be an engineer. The list goes on. These words echo endlessly, towering over us like dark huge shadows since childhood till we don't exactly know when. Is it acceptable if we deviate from parents' expectations? Is it normal for a child to find peace in embroidery? Is it still fine for a boy to love embroidery?

The sturdy and stubborn roots of patriarchy have seeped in deep and become a major part of how the world functions. Appealing to both young readers and adults, ZardoZi: Stitched With Love, a book by Debasmita Dasgupta, opens a world that questions gender norms, that otherwise are ingrained in our minds like clingy monsters. Dasgupta says, "It is to start questioning the things that we have been told to do. Questioning doesn't mean you are being a rebel, but understanding what you are doing."

The project stands on the belief that gender norms impact not just girls, but boys, too, and they need to be reinterpreted for a gender-equitable society. While there are pronounced discussions on girls breaking the stereotypes, there is a dire need for more work for boys who are caught in the pressure of masculine norms, to be 'strong', in many cases, leading to repression of emotions. The book, interspersed with narration and illustrations with minimum colours, is a visual feast for the readers – giving importance to the moods of each situation and the emotions of the characters.

ZardoZi is an offshoot of personal experiences and the surroundings Dasgupta saw growing up. Recalling an incident when she was young, the author says, "We had embroidery classes at school. I was terrible at it, but I remember my cousin, (he) was really good at it." Dasgupta also urges parents to support the kids in choosing what they want to pursue and make them believe that they have the agency to do so.

JAY MAKES HIS LEAP INTO HOLLYWOOD WITH HIS DEBUT FILM, MIA II

With 12 years of experience working with various Kannada directors, the filmmaker shares his inspiration for doing an English film and reveals key details about the film

A SHARADHAA

FOR over 12 years, Jay has journeyed through the multifaceted world of cinema, honing his craft under various directors in Kannada. He is embarking on a new journey as an independent feature film director with a Hollywood production titled Mia II. The film has a predominantly English-speaking cast and technical crew.

Shot over an intense 40-day schedule in the vibrant streets of Bangkok, Mia II is described as an exploration of grief, love, and the supernatural, with a narrative that takes us into the complexities of a mother-daughter relationship. The film, written by Jay as well as produced by Vivek Bandi and Tirumalaraju Varma under the J2 Leisure Filming Thailand banner, is in post-production. The makers aim for a worldwide release on December 25.

When asked why he chose to helm an English-language film as his inaugural project, Jay offers a refreshing perspective. "If we don't find what we seek in our immediate surroundings, it's only natural to look beyond our borders to fulfil our aspirations," he explains. "My journey has involved frequent travels for business, to Bangkok and Thailand, and while film direction has always been my passion, I found it best to express that passion in English."

Mia II tells the story of a mother and daughter who encounter paranormal events after moving into a new home. With a blend of horror and emotions, the film invites into their struggles to overcome loss while confronting malevolent forces, according to the makers. "The theme of motherhood is universal," Jay asserts. "A mother is someone who sacrifices everything for her children. This was the emotional core I wanted to explore—it's a story that resonates globally."

In addition to directing, Jay has worked on the screenplay and dialogues, crafting a narrative that bridges cultures and speaks to the shared experiences of families worldwide. The film stars Kim in the titular role as Mia, with Bruna portraying her mother. The ensemble cast includes Sunny D, Vova, and Josh, each bringing their own flair to the film, reveals Jay.

The technical team behind Mia II is as diverse as its cast. Music for the film is composed by San Page, who has also managed sound mixing and mastering, and its editing is by Swamy. The lyrics to the film's songs are penned by Denmark's Palle Hasling Jakobsen, with bass contributions from Canadian musician Ian. Cinematography is handled by Naveen Kumar, known for his work on Shokiwala, Buddhivantha 2, and Terror, adding another layer of expertise to this ambitious project.

Jay aims to connect the film with audiences through themes of love and sacrifice. As post-production wraps up and the release date nears, he describes Mia II as a film that blends horror with deep emotion. "My leap into making a Hollywood film isn't just a career move; it's a meaningful first step in my film journey," the director concludes.

Film: How to Make Millions Before Grandma Dies

CINEMA WITHOUT BORDERS

In this weekly column, the writer introduces you to powerful cinema from across the world

NAMRATA JOSHI

WITH due apologies to Karan Johar, the tagline for Pat Boonnitipat's How to Make Millions Before Grandma Dies could well read, "It is all about learning to love your family." Boonnitipat's directorial debut feature has been smashing box office records for a Thai film in Southeast Asia and has been comfortably lodged on the top ten charts since it dropped mid-September on Netflix Singapore. It has been minting millions in the region by making millions cry to the extent that reels and videos of its sobbing audiences have been going viral on social media.

It's not tough to fathom the bittersweet film's universal appeal. The pain of the loss of a loved one is an experience every human is bound to face at some point in time. Squaring up to mortality is inevitable for everyone. How to… is unique in how it turns death into a vital mode of creating a dialogue between generations, in the process reaching out to viewers across all age groups.

M (Putthipong "Billkin" Assaratanakul), a university dropout, trying to make a mark in the world of gaming, decides to become the primary caregiver for his ailing grandmother Mengju (Usha "Taew" Seamkhum), down with the last stage of stomach cancer, in the hope of inheriting her estate. Mengju's sons Kiang and Soei also have an eye on the fortune. It's only her daughter and M's mother Sew (Sarinrat "Jear" Thomas) who is not covetous and believes in the idea of giving rather than receiving. Boonnitipat's narrative moves a full circle, beginning with Mengju's family observing tomb-sweeping day rituals in the cemetery in remembrance of their ancestors. It's here that she expresses her desire to be buried in a big plot of land of her own, when her time comes; something that will cost millions. Will she have her wish fulfilled? The film ends with her final journey to her eternal home. In between lies the coming-of-age story of her grandson M, who learns the value of people and relationships over wealth through his close association with her in her last days.

It's wonderful to see the relationship between M and Mengju grow gradually from initial scepticism of the demanding grandma and the impatience of the grandson to mutual respect and admiration. M learns the value of her selfless ways as opposed to the materialism of her self-centric sons. It's as much about her deliverance from pain and ties that bind as his redemption by understanding the ways of the world. The film casts a critical look at gender roles and expectations perpetuated within families—the hypocrisy of having high expectations of duty, responsibility and commitment from mothers and daughters as opposed to the free reign given to the fathers and sons. A scenario that holds true of conservative bastions across South Asia as well. However, the film makes the feminist point without raving or ranting about it.

While being an emotional ride, it doesn't feel overly manipulative. A lovely sense of restraint and tenderness runs through it. On the flip side, there's little about the film's plot that's not predictable. You can see the twists and turns coming from afar. The characters—other than M, Mengju and Sew—are painted with broad brushstrokes—the good-for-nothing sons, the greedy cousins et al. However, the grandmother, her daughter and the grandson and their relationship with each other are all suitably nuanced. A lot of that stems from the heartfelt performances of the three primary players. Billkin, Taew, and Jear are so well-tuned with each other that it seems like they truly are related to each other. While Billkin is a popular actor, it's Taew who is surprisingly sublime for a non-actor in her first-ever film. A debut in her late 70s. While playing an ageing woman, she underscores the fact that age is, after all, just a number.
